PLAN ANNOUNCED FOR LOAN OF THE $135,000,000 FUND ON SURPLUS COTTON CROP

The Federal Reserve Board Sends Details of Scheme to Clearing House Associations Throughout Country.

COTTON LOAN COMMITTEE WILL HANDLE THE FUND

Applications for Loans Go to State and Local Committees—Loans Run for a Year With the Privilege of Renewal.

Washington, October 27.—Full details of the plan for a $135,000,000 loan fund to take care of the surplus cotton crop were made public tonight by the federal reserve board.

The board's outline of the plan was sent to clearing house associations throughout the country. Responses are expected before the end of the week and officials were hopeful tonight that the plan would meet with sufficient banking support to make its adoption certain.

The outline differs only in detail from the previous announcements of the board. The fund, it shows, is to be administered under direction of a committee to be known as the central committee, to be composed of the individual reserve board members.

Members of Loan Committee.

Actual administration of the fund will be under a "cotton loan committee," consisting of these members:

W. P. Harding, member of the board, chairman; Paul M. Warburg, of the board; Colonel E. M. House, Austin, Texas; A. H. Wiggin, New York; James S. Alexander, New York; James B. Forgan, Chicago; Festus J. Wade, St. Louis; Levi L. Rue, Philadelphia, and William A. Gaston, Boston.

There are to be two classes of subscriptions. The first will be known as class "A," will aggregate $100,000,000 and will be raised in non-cotton producing states. Class "B" subscriptions are to be made by banks or bankers in cotton producing states.

Applications for loans must be submitted to state and local committees, which are required to approve them, and made through banks or bankers. Applications must be accompanied by subscriptions to class "B" amounting to 25 per cent of the loan requested, so that non-cotton producing states participating will loan 75 per cent and cotton states 25. Every subscriber will receive certificates of participation, which shall be transferable on the committee's books and bear 6 per cent interest.

6 Cents Basis for Cotton.

Loans will be made on notes at 6 per cent with warehouse receipts for cotton as collateral, on the basis of 6 cents per pound for middling. All expenses for warehouse and insurance charges must be borne by the borrower. A guarantee fund is to be created by deductions of 3 per cent from the face value of all loans, which will be used also to provide funds for the payment of expenses of administration, estimated not to exceed 1-8 of 1 per cent of the fund.

All applications for loans must be made before February 1, 1915. The loans will have a maturity of one year with a promise of renewal for six months on approval of the central committee.

In the repayment of subscribers to the fund, the class A certificates will be taken care of in a proportionately larger degree until the outstanding amounts on each class become equal.

Reserve Board's Statement.

The board's statement follows:

"It is proposed to create in the manner hereinafter provided a fund of approximately $135,000,000 to be known as the 'cotton loan fund,' and to be used for the purposes herein stated. Subscribers to this fund shall be divided into two classes, to be designated respectively as class A and class B subscribers. Class A subscribers shall consist of banks and other corporations, firms or individuals located or residing in other than the cotton producing states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas and Tennessee.

"All class A subscriptions shall be contingent upon the receipt of subscriptions of that class aggregating $100,000,000. Class B subscriptions shall be made by banks or bankers located or residing in the cotton producing states above mentioned, and as hereinafter explained; no class B subscriptions shall be required except as a condition of a loan or loans to be made out of the fund to be created, and in such event subscriptions shall not be required to exceed 25 per cent of the amount of the loan applied for.

"Each subscriber shall, upon the payment in whole or in part of the amount subscribed for, receive a participation certificate, transferable on the books of the committee, showing on its face the class of subscription represented thereby and specifying the terms under which the owner will be entitled to share in the distribution of the moneys realized from the loans made from the fund created.

"All class A and class B certificates shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, payable quarterly.

Administration of Fund.

"The cotton loan fund will be administered under the direction of a committee to be known as the central committee, and to be composed of individual members of the federal reserve board. The central committee shall appoint a committee for the general administration of the fund to be known as the cotton loan committee, and shall delegate to such committee such powers as may be necessary to properly carry out the purposes of this plan. The cotton loan committee to be named by the central committee shall consist of the following:

"W. P. G. Harding, chairman, Washington, D. C.; Paul M. Warburg, Washington, D. C.; Colonel E. M. House, Austin, Texas; Albert H. Wiggin, New York; James S. Alexander, New York; James B. Forgan, Chicago, Ill.; Festus J. Wade, St. Louis, Mo.; Levi L. Rue, Philadelphia, Pa.; William A. Gaston, Boston, Mass.

"The cotton loan committee shall in turn appoint committees in each of the cotton producing states hereinbefore named, the title of such commit-

$4,500,000 BONDS NEEDED BY CITY

According to estimates submitted by the heads of the various city departments to the bond investigating committee of council Tuesday afternoon a bond issue of $4,500,000 is needed to carry out all the improvements for which the city has been planning for years.

Estimates submitted were $225,000 for hospital, $1,000,000 for waterworks, $150,000 for the fire department, $750,000 for sewers, $1,500,000 for schools, $500,000 for streets, $250,000 for police equipment and $75,000 for parks.

The committee heard from the heads of the various departments. Chief W. B. Cummings at first stated that the fire department would require about $255,000 to replace all its equipment with motor-driven apparatus and put the department in such shape as to meet the demands incident to the growth of the city for five years to come.

Wants Five More Stations.

Among other things Chief Cummings appealed for five additional fire stations and equipment. When he was questioned by the board, Chief Cummings said that the city could realize but little on its present equipment for the reason that even the small cities are using motor apparatus and are not in the market for old style engines.

General Manager W. Zode Smith told the committee that the water department would need approximately $1,000,000 to make the plant large enough to meet the growing demands of the city. Included in his estimate was an amount sufficient to build a new station.

Councilman Jesse B. Lee, chairman of the sewer committee, said that between $750,000 and $1,000,000 will be needed for sewers.

Alderman Jesse Armistead, chairman of the school committee, estimated that it will require $1,500,000 to carry out the plans of the school board for additional grammar schools and new high schools for boys and girls, a commercial high school and tech high school. He said the money will take care of the needs of the department in the matter of school buildings for at least twenty years.

For Street Improvements.

It was roughly estimated that street improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

For police equipment, including three substations, it was estimated that $250,000 would be needed.

Alderman McDonald said that $75,000 is needed by the park board for a new building for the cyclorama.

The committee discussed with the head of each department the actual necessities of each department and several changed their estimates by cutting out numerous items.

The committee took no definite action other than to appoint a subcommittee to make a thorough investigation of the needs of the city and make a report.

TORPEDO BOAT PAULDING STUCK FAST IN THE SAND

Norfolk, Va., October 27.—Held fast between two sandbars in Lynnhaven bay, where she struck early this morning during a severe northeast storm, the torpedo boat Paulding is tonight being pounded by high seas, which at times break all over the tiny craft. Anchored near-by is the auxiliary cruiser Panther, mother ship of the torpedo flotilla. She has a rope made fast to the Paulding, but the latter craft is embedded so deep in the sand that all efforts to pull her into deep water were abandoned, for fear that she could not stand the strain.

On board the Paulding are eighty-four men, some of them wearing life-preservers. Life-savers from Cape Henry station made several unsuccessful efforts to reach the Paulding today. The sea was so high they could not launch their lifeboats.

The storm at midnight had abated and the sea was moderating.

The torpedo boats Burrough and Juett also went ashore during the blow this morning. The Burrough had a hole stove in her starboard bow and was picked up by the auxiliary cruiser Dixie. She later came to the Norfolk navy yard. The Juett struck a sandbar and had her starboard propeller broken off. She, too, came to the yard.

It was reported at the navy yard tonight that the Paulding was not leaking, according to last reports received from the vessel.

COTTON FOR GERMANY WILL NOT BE BOTHERED

Neither Will Great Britain Interfere With Shipments for Austria.

Washington, October 27.—After diplomatic negotiations with Great Britain, whose cruisers hold virtual control of trans-Atlantic commerce, the state department today announced that shipping would be safeguarded along these lines:

American shippers can send cotton to Germany and Austria without interference by Great Britain.

Arrangements are being made between neutral countries in Europe to provide against re-exportation of conditional contraband to belligerent countries.

Commerce between neutral countries will not be hindered in the least by Great Britain as long as cargoes are specially consigned.

American shippers will be supported in their claims against belligerents if American cargoes are lost when carried in belligerent bottoms.

Baron von Schoen, attached to the German embassy, today was formally notified by Acting Secretary Lansing of Great Britain's attitude toward cotton shipments. Mr. Lansing admitted receiving from Great Britain a list of articles of conditional contraband, but he declined to make it public until Great Britain had formally proclaimed it as in effect.

Mr. Lansing confirmed the announcement made at London by Sir Edward Grey and by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, that cotton was not contraband and would not be declared as such by Great Britain.

Informal inquiries were made today of the state department as to its attitude toward claims on cargoes of neutral goods lost when belligerent ships were sunk. Mr. Lansing said there had been some cases of American goods lost in British merchant ships called to the attention of the department. While the whole subject of shipping has been worked out practically anew since the declaration of London was not generally ratified, it was indicated that American shippers might file claims and would be supported by the American government in this connection.

TO LOAD COTTON FOR GERMANY.

Galveston, Texas, October 27—It was announced here today that the new German steamer Rhinefeite is en route to Galveston to transport 10,000 bales of cotton to Bremen.

GERMAN CASUALTIES AVERAGE 10,000 DAILY

Rome, October 27.—According to official reports received here, the German casualties daily average 10,000 in killed and wounded. All of those slightly or not gravely wounded, an average of from 70 to 80 per cent, return to the ranks after a relatively short time.

ANTWERP FIRMS ASK MILLIONS FROM BRITAIN

Amsterdam, October 27.—(Via London.)—The Cologne Gazette says that fifty Antwerp commercial houses have protested to the American minister against the destruction of their stocks by the British before their retreat. They demand from the British government an indemnification of $46,000,000. The destruction of their goods, they claim, was not occasioned by the defense of the town, but was wilfully carried out by the retreating British troops during the evacuation.

PLAYING AT SUICIDE, YOUNG GEORGIA BOY SHOOTS SELF DEAD

Ocilla, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—While attending superior court this morning as witnesses Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cape, who reside about four miles from Ocilla at Frank, Ga., were horrified to learn about 8 o'clock by telephone of the killing of their 12-year-old son Ernest.

It was first reported that the boy was shot by one of his young brothers in a fight, but upon an investigation it was ascertained that a number of the Cape children were playing when Ernest undertook to explain how he would accomplish suicide in case he should decide to do so.

He took a shotgun, placed the butt on the ground with the muzzle against his left breast and, not knowing the gun to be loaded or cocked, placed his big toe on the trigger, when the gun fired, the load of shot taking effect just below the left breast, tearing a frightful wound in his body and causing instant death.

CAPTAIN JOHN J. ASTOR WOUNDED IN BATTLE

He Is Son of William Waldorf Astor, Who Left New York for London.

London, October 27.—Captain John Jacob Astor, first life guards, son of William Waldorf Astor, has been wounded in a battle in France. His name appears in the list of casualties made public tonight.

The casualty list issued tonight reports sixteen officers killed, thirty-five wounded and twenty-three missing. Among the wounded are Brigadier General C. T. McM. Kavanagh and Lieutenant Colonel E. B. Cook, first life guards; Lieutenant Colonel A. F. H. Ferguson, second life guards, and Lieutenant Colonel B. E. Ward, Middlesex.

GEN. FRANKLYN DIES SUDDENLY.

London, October 27.—Lieutenant General Sir William Edmund Franklyn, who commanded the third division of Kitchener's new army, died suddenly tonight.

Lieutenant General Franklyn, prior to assuming command in Kitchener's army, was military secretary to the secretary for war. He had served with distinction in India and other countries.

BRITISH FREIGHT SHIP DESTROYED BY MINE

Belfast, Ireland, October 27.—(Via London.)—The British freight steamer Manchester Commerce, bound from Manchester for Montreal, struck a mine at midnight last night and sank. Captain Payne and thirteen men were drowned. Thirty other members of the crew were saved by a trawler.

Montreal, October 27.—The Manchester Commerce, a large freighter, plying between Montreal and Manchester, made her last trip from this port October 3. She was owned by the Manchester Liners, a British corporation, had a net tonnage of 3,444, and carried about forty-three men. Captain Payne, who went down with his vessel, was widely known in shipping circles here.

AUSTRO-GERMAN FIRMS UNDER BAN IN FRANCE

Paris, October 28.—(12:40 a. m.)—Eighteen additional Austro-German firms and also the bank of J. Allard & Co., the Paris representative of the Dresdner bank, of Berlin, have been sequestered by the government.

CARRANZA TO QUIT IF VILLA WILL QUIT

First Chief Submits Resignation to Convention on Condition That Villa Shall Retire to Private Life.

Mexico City, October 27.—Venustiano Carranza has submitted his resignation to the Aguas Calientes convention. His offer to relinquish his post as supreme chief of the nation, however, is conditional on the retirement to private life of General Francisco Villa.

In offering to resign, General Carranza said he was actuated only by the highest motives of patriotism and that acceptance or rejection of his offer must depend on whether or not his elimination would contribute toward peace and the furtherance of true democratic ideas.

Discussing the resignation, a high government official said today:

"General Villa has charged General Carranza with being a self-seeker who desired to take advantage of an accident and perpetuate himself in power. Carranza now shows his good faith by declaring that if the personalities of himself and Villa are to be a check on peace and to democratic progress in Mexico City they should step down and out. As you Americans say, 'It is now up to Mr. Villa!'

"The followers of Carranza are willing to let history judge us by this act of disinterestedness on his part, for we can make no greater sacrifice in the interest of peace and patriotism."

ZAPATA DELEGATES VISIT GENERAL VILLA.

Washington, October 27.—Although officials had no definite advices of today's deliberations at the Mexican national convention at Aguas Calientes, previous dispatches had indicated that General Carranza's resignation would be submitted by Generals Obregon, Chao and Castro, who interviewed the first chief.

The announcement from Mexico City that Carranza had submitted his resignation conditioned on the retirement to private life of General Villa was in line with reports from American Consul Silliman, who a few days ago stated that Carranza was willing to resign if both Zapata and Villa relinquished their posts in the constitutionalist army.

The latest advices received by the state department from its special agents were dated Aguas Calientes, 3 p. m. yesterday, and told of the visit of the twenty-eight Zapata delegates to Guadalupe, where General Villa has headquarters. They returned to the convention the same day. It appears that the Zapata representatives did not come as duly authorized delegates of the southern chief, but as a commission to exchange impressions and views with delegates at the convention. When they had satisfied themselves of the character of the convention they were to report to Zapata and receive full authorization.

PLOT TO MURDER ALLEGED BY VILLA.

El Paso, Texas, October 27.—An attempt has been made to assassinate General Francisco Villa by an agent said to have been commissioned and paid by General Pablo Gonzales, General Carranza's staunch supporter, said a message sent the Associated Press today by Louis Aguirre Benavides,

Bloodily Checked, Germans Still Try For Channel Ports

In Fiercest Fighting of War, Kaiser's Forces Are Driven Inland—Kaiser, However, Is Bent on Reaching Channel and He Personally Orders Heavy Reinforcements to Resume Dash. French Take the Offensive Near Nancy and Drive the Germans Across the Frontier—According to French War Office, Allied Line Is Holding and Some Gains Are Made.

London, October 28.—(2 a. m.)—Thousands upon thousands of German reinforcements have been added to the great masses of troops endeavoring to force their way to the northern ports of France.

It is said this ceaseless pushing forward of vast bodies of German soldiers is by direct order of the emperor, whose eye is fixed on England, against which an early campaign is considered among the possibilities, provided a suitable base can be found from which to direct the forces.

Similarly the allies have been strongly reinforced, and among the new troops at the front are the British Indians, who, according to all accounts, have been bearing themselves well.

German Raid on Channel Ports Seems to Have Been Checked

London, October 27.—The German raid on the channel ports, as it is called here, seems to have been checked for the time being, or, at any rate, the Germans have made little, if any, progress since they crossed the Yser canal last Saturday. They, however, are still pushing with all the forces at their command, and are meeting with stubborn resistance from French, British and Belgian troops.

Losses on both sides continue proportionate to the fierceness of the battle, which means that they are greater than those in any battle since war was declared, now nearly three months ago.

ALLIES HOLD OWN ALONG COAST.

Along the coast, where the allies are assisted by French and British warships, they apparently have more than held their own, and, after inflicting heavy losses on the Germans, have compelled them to try for an opening farther inland.

Up until yesterday the allies had been forced to give way at some points, but today, according to the French official communication, they have held their positions at every point from the mouth of the Yser to the Lens district and again have advanced between Ypres and Roulers, where there has been some of the sternest fighting of

SECOND REBELLION IN SOUTH AFRICA AGAINST BRITAIN

Gen. De Wet and Gen. Beyers Leading the Rebels in Orange Free State and Western Transvaal.

STRONG STEPS TAKEN TO CRUSH REBELLION

Second Outbreak Is More Serious Than That Led by Col. Maritz—De Wet Was Prominent in Boer War.

London, October 28.—(1:30 a. m.)—An official Pretoria dispatch announces that General Louis Botha, premier of the Union of South Africa, has left for the front.

London, October 27.—Another rebellion has broken out in South Africa. General Christian De Wet and General Christian Frederick Beyers have taken the lead of the rebels in the Orange Free State and western Transvaal.

Having put down Lieutenant Colonel Maritz's rebellion in the northern province of Cape Colony, the government of the Union of South Africa now faces a far more serious rising.

According to an official report today armed rebellious commandoes already are in existence; the town of Heilbron, in the northern part of the Orange River colony, has been seized and government officials have been taken prisoners, while a train has been stopped and armed citizens of the defense force have been taken from it and disarmed.

Steps to Put Down Rebels.

The Union government has issued a proclamation announcing these events and explaining that, although it was aware of these rebellious preparations, it had been taking steps to preserve peace without bloodshed.

"Now," continues the proclamation, "the duty of the government is clear. It is determined to deal with the matter with a firm hand and is taking necessary steps. The great majority of citizens in every province of the Union are thoroughly loyal. When they are aware of the situation they undoubtedly will give the government every assistance in restoring order and this sanguinary battle and where the British Indian troops have made their first appearance in the firing line.

The opposing forces are so strong that it must be many days before a decisive result is attained by either side, despite great losses they are suffering and which grow greater as report follows report.

GERMANS DRIVEN NEAR NANCY.

Along the old front, stretching from the river Oise to the Meuse, from which the Germans withdrew their best troops to strengthen the army attempting to advance along the coast, the French have been taking the offensive and north of Soissons have been engaging in an artillery duel with the Germans in which they have destroyed several German batteries. They seem to have been playing at this game for some time, for the last three reports from Paris have announced the destruction of German guns.

Farther east the offensive tactics of the French have driven the Germans, who were threatening Nancy, back across the frontier. The Germans, however, are so strongly entrenched along this line that it is believed they are preparing to remain for the winter, holding their positions until their present objectives, the northern ports of France, have been attained.

SERIOUS BATTLES ON EAST FRONT.

Serious battles also are proceeding in Southern Poland and in Galicia, without decisive results. The Russians, however, have crossed the Vistula north of Ivangorod with a fresh army corps, which should have a marked effect on the fortunes of the battle. From their own account they appear to be breaking down Austrian resistance south of Przemysl and throughout Galicia, where fighting of the most stubborn character has been going on for weeks.

German mine layers have been busy again and have mined the waters north of Ireland, the first victim of which was the British steamer Manchester Commerce.

ANOTHER REVOLT IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Another rebellion has broken out in South Africa—this time headed by General Christian De Wet and General Beyers. Neither of these men has any political following, but it is feared burghers, who, like themselves, retain some of the bitterness aroused by the South African war, will join them.

The defense force, as the army of the Union of South Africa is called, is considered for the government, for when General Beyers gave up his command of that force on the outbreak of war none of the officers or men of the army followed him. Besides, General Botha, the premier, retains his support of the great mass of the people of the Union.

GERMANS FORCED ACROSS YSER.

London, October 27.—A Central News dispatch from northeastern France says the Germans, in great part, were driven back across the Yser yesterday. French infantry, aided by monitors, accomplished the task.

"When the Belgians undertook the defense of the Yser," the dispatch continues, "they held it for a week. Then by sheer weight of artillery and men, the Germans pushed them back, but not before they had paid the full price of the temporary gain.

"At least two army corps faced the Belgians. Their object was to force them right into France and thus turn the allies' left. It cost the Belgians a thousand casualties to prevent this. It is reported on reliable authority that the German emperor had placed eight army corps in this part of the field. Their losses have been frightful; their successes virtually nil.

"Toward the end of last week the situation was doubtful; now there is no reason to fear failure. On the contrary, first class success may be looked for, which will place the Germans finally on the defensive in the west. Great progress is being made in the reorganization of the Belgian army."

GERMANS OBJECT TO BRITISH BAYONET.

London, October 27.—Telegraphing about the fighting in Belgium, the correspondent of The Times in northern France, says:

"The enemy's most furious attack along the line of the Yser was at Ypres, where a quarter of a million Germans, for five critical days, were held back by the British force.

"The artillery fire against the Britishers in the trenches was terrible, churning up the earth and often burying the men by dozens. Repeatedly the enemy's infantry advanced to within a few hundred yards, but every time our men leaped from the trenches and went at them with bayonet. The Germans have no relish for a bayonet charge and they fled, firing their rifles over their shoulders as they ran.

"Many hundreds were captured and thousands were killed and wounded. Still their shrapnel rained into the British trenches and fresh infantry took the places of the Germans who had been decimated.

"The situation grew more and more critical and it seemed that the British were likely to be borne down by sheer weight of numbers. Still they held on. Friday came at last and with it needed reinforcements. The position was saved and the Germans fell back fifteen miles."

INDIAN TROOPS STOPPED GERMANS.

London, October 27.—A Daily Telegraph dispatch dated "Northern France," relates the first instance of the British Indian troops coming into action:

"It was at La Bassee last week when, by a great effort, the Germans carried the British trenches and the positions looked dangerous. An avalanche of the enemy poured through.

"The supports of the British line were the Indian troops thirsting to prove their quality. It was a bayonet affair and the German advance was beaten and broken. The Indians ran through them, thrusting the foe back to receive the right and left fire of the British infantry, who awaited their coming. The Indians regained the lost trenches and pursued the enemy down the hill until their officers recalled them."

GERMAN WOUNDED ARE COUNTLESS.

London, October 27.—(3:17 a. m.)—Telegraphing from Flushing The Daily Mail's correspondent says:

"The general opinion is that the allies will soon be in Ostend again. Ostend, like Bruges and Ghent, is overflowing with wounded, and Antwerp itself is now filling up. This unceasing flow of wounded men is calculated to destroy the morale of the German troops in Ostend.

"Reports from all sides tell of terrible carnage round about Roulers, where the dead are lying in heaps. On the sea front there the naval shells worked havoc. Carts come and go the day long with wounded. Large farm wagons with their sloping sides are packed with masses of wounded and dying men."

German Line Broken at Nancy, According to French War Office

Paris, Otober 27.—A very brief official statement was issued at 11 o'clock tonight by the French war office regarding the great battle which is in progress in Belgium and northern France. The text follows:

"There is nothing to report except some progress on our part in the region to the south of Dixmude."

The French official announcement, given this afternoon, says that spirited fighting continues between the mouth of the Yser and Lens; that in this district the allies have not drawn back, and that they have continued to advance in the region between Ypres and Roulers and elsewhere.

The text of the communication follows:

"The fighting continues to be particularly spirited between the mouth of the Yser and the region of Lens. In this part of the front, the allied forces have at no point drawn back, and they have continued to make progress in the region between Ypres and Roulers. In the general region between Soissons and Berry-au-Bac an artillery engagement resulted to our advantage and resulted in the destruction of several batteries of the enemy.

"In the region to the east of Nancy, between the forest of Bosange and the forest of Parroy we assumed the offensive and drove the enemy across the frontier.

"Russia: On the river San and to the south of Przemysl the Russian offensive is becoming more accentuated."

PARIS SATISFIED BY REPORTS.

Paris, October 27.—Paris today began another twenty-four hours of waiting for news from the north, where the fiercest fighting of the war is now going on. Announcement that the Germans had been unable to make headway after their costly crossing of the Yser canal brought keen satisfaction to the people of the capital; previous to this statement the movements of the enemy in the north had awakened considerable uneasiness in the public mind.

Unofficial explanations followed this news; to wit, that in an attack particularly violent by a powerful and tenacious adversary such affairs were inevitable.

It was said that a momentary German gain at one point could not exercise much influence on the operations generally. Stress also was laid on the difficult ground which the enemy had to traverse and on the fact that a similar movement which turned out unsuccessful was attempted recently by the Germans on the river Meuse at St. Mihiel. These constant violent attacks which, were so costly, military men pointed out, manifestly would also wear down the Germans little by little. Theories regarding the exact purpose of the movement of the invaders varied, but the allies seemed sure today of further maintaining their positions.

News from Furnes, on the route to Dunkirk, which presumably is the objective of the Germans, tells of the heroism displayed by the Belgians, who are once most in the fight with the invaders. The stand made by the defenders has created much admiration on the part of the allies.

The battle of October 25 was marked by a terrific artillery duel in which the allies gained some advantage. In the evening the Germans attempted surprise attacks which brought them on the right bank of the Yser, but all these attempts were repulsed with enormous losses.

GERMANS LOSE MEN AND GUNS.

Washington, October 27.—Official dispatches to the French embassy from the foreign office in Bordeaux today reported capture of a number of prisoners and much artillery in the battle between the Ypres and Roulers, and also east of Nancy. Complete repulse of the German offensive in East Prussia also was announced. The dispatch follows:

"In the region between Ypres and Roulers considerable progress has been made and a number of prisoners and nine mitrailleuses were taken. In the region east of Nancy, where we drove the enemy over the frontier, we captured about 200 prisoners.

"In Poland the combat has taken on the nature of a general battle which extends from Rawa to the confluence of the Islanka and Vistula rivers on a front of 100 kilometers. In the north of Rawa the Russians have inflicted great losses on the Germans and taken batteries and mitrailleuses and prisoners. In Galicia the Austrians are fighting with less energy. The Russian troops have progressed to the south of the San, Sambor and from Staromiaste. In East Prussia the tentative and partial offensive of the Germans has been entirely repulsed."

Battle Marked by Stubbornness, According to German Report

Berlin, October 27.—(Via Amsterdam and London.)—The German general headquarters, under date of October 27, announces:

"The battle on the Yser canal near Ypres and southwesterly from Lille is proceeding with the same stubbornness. Yesterday the German troops made progress.

"On the other battle front in the western theater no important events have occurred.

"To the west of Augustowo the German attack is slowly proceeding. To the southwest of Warsaw our troops have repulsed all the attacks of strong Russian forces. North of Ivangorod, a new Russian army corps has crossed the Vistula."

CARRANZA TO QUIT IF VILLA WILL QUIT

General Villa's first secretary. The would-be assassin, Francisco I. Mugia, was executed after making a confession before George C. Carothers, the American consular agent.

The accusation caused much excitement. The telegram from Villa's secretary said Mugia was apprehended at Guadalupe, where Villa, with his troops, has been awaiting the outcome of the conference. The official report stated that the prisoner just prior to his execution told the Villa officials in the presence of Carothers that he had been paid a large sum of money by General Gonzales at Mexico City. In his possession were found incriminating evidence and a loaded pistol.

"Mr. Consul: Please advise your government and my family that I died a traitor," Mugia was quoted as having said. The accused was an Argentine subject. It was Mugia who assassinated a German consular official in Mexico City some years ago.

General Villa notified the convention delegates at Aguas Callentes of the matter, suggesting to them that they "act in the present case as justice and the Mexico honor demand."

CARRANZA DENIES PART IN PLOT.

San Antonio, Texas, October 27.—Denying the report that Francisco I. Murgia, who was reported to have been executed for an attempt on the life of General Villa, had been hired by General Pablo Gonzales, General Carranza, in a signed statement received tonight by Constitutionalist Consul Beltran, denied that he had any part in the plot to kill Villa.

General Carranza admits the existence of a well organized plot to do away with the fighting general and mentions the names of Manuel Chao, General Rosalio Hernandez, Maclovio Herrera and Luis Herrera.

Carranza says the plot has been in existence for some time, but declares he rebuked his generals and denounced their plans. Carranza says that he saved Villa's life at the time of their break, when Chao and Maclovio Herrera were anxious to have him dispatched.

Carranza says the report that papers were found on Murgia connecting him with the constitutionalist cause is false.

BRITISH WARSHIPS FIRE ON GERMAN TRENCHES

Amsterdam, October 27.—(Via London, midnight.)—A Telegraaf dispatch from Sluis says:

"The guns which were silent yesterday were firing again today. The British ships have resumed bombardment of the German trenches at Ostend.

"The Germans again and again have crossed the Yser canal, but each time have been driven back by artillery and machine gun fire and the bayonet. The battle rages indecisively on the Yser and between Dixmude and Ypres.

"In severity and in losses the fighting exceeds that which occurred on the Nethe and the Meuse. Shells from the warships play havoc in the German trenches. The Germans have brought up more artillery, some of which has been posted on the sea at Heyst and other places.

"The number of wounded continually brought into Bruges is great. All public buildings and monasteries have been transformed into hospitals."

FRESH TERROR PROVIDED FOR GERMAN BIRDMEN

London, October 27.—The new British gun used for the first time in recent days, says the correspondent of The Times in northern France, has provided a fresh terror for German airmen. The gun, the correspondent states, succeeds in finding its target with great facility.

FIGHTING BEGINS ALONG THE FRONT IN EAST PRUSSIA

Russians Are on the Offensive and Petrograd Reports That Germans Have Been Beaten at Many Points.

Petrograd, October 27.—The following communication from the Russian general staff was issued here tonight:

"Fighting has begun on the front in Eastern Prussian. We have repulsed fierce German attacks in the region of Bakalarzewo. We took at Gombin, on the left bank of the Vistula, a convoy prisoners.

"The battle front, October 26, extended from Koutno through Tezow, Rawa, Nowemiasto, Bailobrzegi and Glowaczew to the mouth of the Ilzanka.

"Among the German troops there were many new recruits.

"The fighting was especially fierce around Tezow and Rawa, where we captured portions of the enemy's positions.

"We won a victory that was essential toward Novo Alexandria and Zwolen. The enemy there is in retreat. We took about fifty officers and 3,000 men, several machine guns and eight cannon.

"South of Solec our troops, after crossing the Vistula, took eight officers and 300 men and some machine guns.

"Around Przemysl we have advanced as far on the railway as Staremiasto and Turka."

GERMANS DELAYED AND LOST WARSAW.

Petrograd, October 27.—(Via London.)—Failure by the Germans to utilize an opportune moment for an attack on Warsaw, after they had approached within eight miles without being discovered, turned the tide of the German invasion of Russian Poland, according to reliable advices received from the front today.

Russian generals are absolutely at a loss to explain the German strategy in delaying a night attack until the opportunity was lost. They express admiration of General von Morgen's lightning advance of five German army corps over the difficult swamp region approaching Warsaw from the southwest. Almost within sight of the city, however, the enemy suddenly decided to delay the attack, and that allowed the Siberian and other Russian reinforcements to give adequate protection.

The Russian generals also have expressed admiration of the Germans' abrupt extrication when they found themselves outflanked, their retreat being so complete and precipitate that the Russians were unable to overtake and engage the rear guard in action for several miles.

Inhabitants of Warsaw, say the dropping of German bombs, which never were very damaging, has ceased.

GERMAN RETREAT VERY HURRIED.

London, October 27.—In a dispatch from Petrograd the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company gives some details of the retreat from the vicinity of Warsaw:

"The Germans retreated from Warsaw at night, covering over 30 miles on their first march. They left artillery to make their retreat. The Russians caught up two days later.

"The capture of Lowicz virtually ensures possession of the country for 80 miles to the westward of Warsaw.

"The Army Messenger states that the Austrian losses in Galicia from the 22d to the 25th of October were 17 officers, 4,150 men, 11 quick firers, 22 cannon and a great quantity of ammunition and stores. The Russian cavalry continues the pursuit.

"The Army Messenger, in summing up the operations on Russian frontier, says the German forces in the region of Elawa and Viltlavsk, disquited by the situation on the front at Thorn and Cracow, have retreated in the direction of East Prussia, where the population has been ordered to retire into the interior.

"On the Galician front the entire Stry valley southward from the river and the railway tracks from the Stry to Drohobyez are congested with Austian corpses. Between last Thursday and Sunday, during the pursuit of the enemy, the Russians captured 17 officers, 4,000 men, 11 machine guns, 22 guns, 23 caissons and masses of other war material."

AUSTRIA REPORTS 8,000 RUSSIANS TAKEN.

Vienna, October 27.—(Via Rotterdam and London.)—An official communication given out here today says:

"In the fighting before Ivangorod we have, up to the present time, captured 8,000 Russians and 19 machine guns.

"Near Jaroslau a Russian colonel and 200 soldiers were forced to surrender.

"Near Zalucze and in the vicinity of Pasieczna the enemy has been driven back. The situation generally is unchanged.

"GENERAL VON HOEFER."

An official statement, issued today, says:

"The situation is unchanged in central Galicia. Southwest of Ivangorod our heroically fighting troops are opposed by superior forces. One of our corps has taken 10,000 prisoners."

SECOND REBELLION IN SOUTH AFRICA

will abstain carefully from giving the rebellious movement encouragement or support."

Citizens are called on to be on the alert and give the government information and assistance and those who have been guilty of disobedience under the defense act are advised that no action will be taken against them if they remain quietly at home.

General De Wet is the cavalry leader who gave the British so much trouble in the South African war. It was announced he had offered his services to England.

General Beyers resigned command of the Union forces when Premier Botha decided to take up arms against Germany.

Sketches of Rebel Leaders.

General De Wet, in the South African war, was commander-in-chief of the Orange Free State forces. He was commandant at Ladysmith and was sent to relieve General Cronje as second in command. After Cronje's surrender he received full command. He was a signatory of the Vereniging peace conference and was appointed minister of agriculture in 1907.

General De Wet opposed the government's action in the present war and early in October attempted to speak at a meeting held in protest, but was prevented by a demonstration of sympathizers of General Louis Botha, premier of the Union of South Africa.

Brigadier General Beyers was also a noted fighter in the South African war and was chairman of the Vereniging peace conference. Last September he resigned as commandant general of the Union defense force because of his disapproval of Great Britain sending expeditions to conquer German Southwest Africa.

VILLAGES DEVASTATED BY THE GERMAN TROOPS

London, October 27.—An Amsterdam dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company says:

"From Sluis comes a report that the country villages around Roulers are being devastated by the Germans, partly for strategical reasons. Both in the towns and outside of them many of the inhabitants have lost their lives through their own imprudence. It is estimated that a thousand inhabitants were killed and that 250 houses have been burned down.

"Roulers is as quiet as a graveyard and only a few German soldiers are seen in the streets.

GERMANS ARE TAKEN FROM AMERICAN TUG

St. John, N. B., October 27.—The American tug Security, owned by the Standard Oil company, was boarded Yesterday afternoon by a detail of eight men from the Sixty-second regiment and four of her crew were removed. One, a naturalized citizen, was released. The other three, all Germans, were detained.

St. John, N. B., October 27.—The members of the crew were arrested on the grounds that they were subjects of a nation with which Great Britain is now at war. The tug's papers showed that three of the four men had signed as subjects of Germany.

GERMAN PRINCE KILLED FIGHTING THE FRENCH

Berlin, October 27.—(Via The Hague and London.)—The sixtieth German casualty list, published today, is headed with the name of Lieutenant General Prince Frederick, of Saxe-Meiningen, killed in battle near Montigney, August 23.

Dispatches report the Germans have repulsed French attacks in southern Vosges.

GERMANY TO BE BEATEN, SAYS LORD BERESFORD

Stafford, England, October 27.—(Via London.)—The serious time of the war, said Lord Charles Beresford here, would begin when the Germans were forced back over the frontier. This was not going to be a short war, Lord Charles added. It would take more than six months or a year to put Emperor William on his back, he said.

Nobody knew what would happen in the next great naval battle, Lord Charles continued. The element of luck would come into play, but luck or no luck, Germany, he declared, must be humbled and humiliated.

'She must lose the whole of her fleet," Lord Charles concluded, "give up the Kiel canal and her colonies; her forts must be demolished and the Krupp works razed to the ground."

GERMANS GET PASSPORTS AS BRITISH SUBJECTS

Washington, October 27.—Complaint that many Germans posing as British subjects are receiving passports out of Germany from American diplomatic agents was filed at the state department today by Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador.

Information has reached the embassy that many aliens have crossed the channel to England with passports obtained by misrepresentation.

Acting Secretary of State Lansing said the American officials in Germany would be cautioned to exercise all possible vigilance.

GERMANS WANT $500,000 FROM MONACO PRINCE

London, October 27.—A dispatch from Paris to the Exchange Telegraph company says that the Germans have seized the prince of Monaco's Chateau de Marchais, near Rheims, and declare that they will blow it up unless the prince immediately pays a ransom of half a million dollars. The prince has addressed an appeal in the case to the neutral countries.

FRENCH MORATORIUM MODIFIED BY DECREE

Bordeaux, October 27.—President Poincare today signed a decree modifying the moratorium proclaimed on August 31 and providing for a gradual return to normal financial conditions.

Bank depositors will be allowed to draw 1000 francs ($200) plus 40 per cent of the balance in November and this percentage will be increased to 50 per cent in December.

The collection of commercial debts expect those of mobilized soldiers may be prosecuted after December 1 in case the debtor invokes the moratorium in bad faith.

GREAT BRITAIN GUARDS AGAINST GERMAN SPIES

Liverpool, October 27.—(Via London.) Officers of the home office today subjected the Mauretania's passengers to a rigid examination on the ship's arrival to learn if German spies were aboard. It had been reported that twenty-two spies sailed from New York.

The officers were assisted by a corps of interpreters, who devoted most of their time to questioning French and Scandinavian maids of American passengers. Through the courtesy of the foreign office, Edward Bell, second secretary of the American embassy in London, and Horace Lee Washington, American consul at Liverpool, were present at the investigation.

Canal Becomes Shambles By Slaughter of Germans; Even the Water Is Bloody

Driven by Officers, 5,000 Germans Crossed the Yser Only to Be Driven Back and Killed in Canal—2,500 German Bodies Found in Waterway.

London, October 27.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail in northern France, telegraphing under date of Sunday night regarding the fighting on the river Yser, says:

"There were 2,500 German bodies in the Yser canal this morning after the fighting in the night. Many of them were drowned and others were bayonetted. The very water itself was bloody, while Dixmude's streets were strewn thick with the dead.

"These ghoulish facts alone give some idea of the savageness of the fighting, the desperation of the German attacks and the stubbornness of the allies' resistance.

Hell From Dark to Dawn.

"The night was a hell from dark to dawn. At almost every point of the line man was opposed by man, sometimes at a few hundred yards' distance, but more often in close grips. Face to face men even wrestled and died by drowning each other in the canal's waters. The Germans had had orders to get through that night, cost what it might.

"An officer of theirs, who was captured, said that the delay of more than a week in crossing this waterway, had incensed the autocratic military mind in Germany. It must be crossed tonight if it costs thousands of men. That in effect was the order given and the German soldiers, all credit to them, did their best.

"Probably five thousand of them gave their lives last night. They could not give more, yet they failed, but not because the Germans did not literally obey their orders. They crossed the waterway all right, as they were bid, but once through they could not make good. They were mowed down with rifle shot, torn into human fragments by shells and bayonetted back yard by yard over their own dead into the waters of the canal. Into the very gray of the morning this bloody work went on so fiercely that there was hardly a trench or bridge guard in the whole line that did not imagine that he had been singled out for special attack.

Hardly One of 5,000 Escaped.

"It is believed that some five thousand Germans crossed the river Yser, but hardly one of them got back. Those to the north and northeast of Dixmude, probably two thousand, were met by a fine rally of the Belgian infantry and of the cavalry, who had tethered their horses, and were driven by main force, at the bayonet's point, to the canal and into it. There must have been frantic scenes and the bodies seen in the water on the next day gave grim testimony of this.

"About 3,000 German infantrymen got into Dixmude. They held it for a time, but with shell fire and rifle fire the place was riddled through and through. The Germans dashed out of the crumbling houses only to be wiped out by a sirocco of shrapnel and shot in the streets.

"When Sunday morning broke the dead and wounded were everywhere. Dixmude was a cemetery, but in the woods not far away the Germans still lingered. They held a position under a desperate fire and eventually were reinforced. The allies could not oust them and the Germans are still across the Yser.

"Their presence may not be permanent and they may suffer the same fate as has overcome hundreds of their fellows during the week, who got over only to meet their death, but the Belgian and French lines, for the time being at least, have been drawn back about this point.

Germans Reckless of Life.

"In one night, Friday, between midnight and dawn, seven different onslaughts were repulsed. Swarms of Germans rushed up with newly made bridges of wood. They were dropped across the canal and notwithstanding the deadly fire from rifles and mitrailleuses, the Germans burst across. There was no stopping them.

"This sort of thing has happened day after day, but in the daylight that followed each night these marauders were hunted down and mowed down. Great batches were killed, crowds were taken prisoners, but that mattered nothing. The next night was sure to bring along more attacks of the same kind.

"The bloodiness and fierceness of the fighting is evident from the number of men on both sides suffering from bayonet wounds. The geographical position of the fight does not alter much, but the Belgians are putting in an immense amount of work.

"The German reinforcements seem never to cease. They come fresh to the attack day after day and trains and trains of wounded have been taken away, but the German force remains more numerous than ever. They seem ready to put every man here rather than give way. Their determination and force must not be underestimated."

PORTUGAL PREPARING TO FIGHT THE GERMANS

Kaiser's Forces Have Invaded Portuguese West Africa. Manuel Offers Services.

London October 27,—Three officers of the Portuguese general staff conferred with British authorities here today on details for military co-operation should Portugal join the allies.

Failing the acceptance of the proffer of his services by King George for the war against Germany, Manuel, former king of Portugal, has now offered the government of the republic of Portugal to serve with the Portuguese contingent if that country decides to join the allies. Manuel is also strongly urging his followers at Lisbon to avoid any attempt to make political capital out of the present situation.

Former Queen Amelia of Portugal, widow of King Carlos, already has gone to the front with the British Red Cross.

Manuel was the second son of King Carlos of Portugal, who, together with the crown prince, was assassinated at Lisbon in 1908. By the death of his father and crown prince he became king. He reigned until 1910, when he was dethroned and fled from Portugal to England. Since this time Portugal has been under republican form of government. Manuel was married in September of 1913 to Princess Augustine Victoria, daughter of Prince William of Hohenzollern.

The Anglo-Portuguese alliance provides that in case of war both powers will assist each other with arms, men and ammunition when required, it being understood that Portugal shall supply troops on Great Britain's demand to the extent of 10,000 men.

GERMANS INVADE PORTUGUESE PROVINCE.

Paris, October 27.—Havas' Lisbon correspondent says:

"Dispatches say that German troops have forcibly invaded the Portuguese province of Angola, West Africa. Preparations are being made to immediately dispatch warships and troops from Portugal to Angola."

BRITISH SHIP DAMAGED BY GERMAN ARTILLERY

Berlin, October 27.—Reports received here from Rotterdam set forth that the British warship struck by German artillery fire off the coast of Belgium broke into flames. This information was given out in Berlin today.

HOW GERMANS EXPECT TO STRIKE ENGLAND

London, October 27.—The Daily Mail's Bergen correspondent quotes The Saxon State Gazette for the following statement made by a general in the adjutant general's office in the war department in Berlin:

"If the English watch on our naval stations in the neighborhood of Helgoland is almost impossible now it will become quite impossible when Belgium and the north coast of France to the mouth of the Seine in German hands.

"In course of time we shall possess Calais and probably Dieppe and Havre. Our twelve-inch howitzers have the large range of 14 miles and the seventeen-inch a still greater range. England can expect still more artillery surprises. Even if we cannot shoot from the French coast to the English coast, a safety zone could be made for German ships covering more than half the navigable water.

"The French harbors will serve as bases for torpedo boats, submarines, cruisers and Zeppelins, and can be made impregnable from the sea by a double or triple row of mines. If this triple field should be laid from the French coast to the English coast then Portsmouth and Plymouth would be cut off from the North sea and connection around Scotland would be difficult.

"The possibility of laying such mines is not doubted, as they could be laid under cover of artillery. Our submarine and torpedo division would also come into action. An invasion of England would be easily possible."

POWERFUL ZEPPELIN LAUNCHED BY GERMANY

London, October 27.—A dispatch from Geneva, Switzerland, to The Express gives this account of the launching of a new Zeppelin:

"The most powerful Zeppelin yet made has just been launched at Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance. Without preliminary trials it flew away northward at great speed, cheered by the soldiers who shouted 'to London!' Count Zeppelin was present at the launching.

"The airship has a special armored compartment for bombs near the propellors and a big gun is mounted in front to destroy aeroplanes. A second airship of a similar type will be ready by the end of October.

"As soon as this new airship—the thirty-first of its kind—is finished, work will be begun on another. More Zeppelins are being built at Dusseldorf Colmar and Berlin, the German staff desiring that the number be brought to a hundred quickly."

LUNATICS ARE SAVED BY A NOVEL SCHEME

London, October 27.—In a dispatch from Petrograd the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company says:

"Along the whole western front the Russian medical aid worked like clockwork. Trains, motors, vans and carriages were plentiful everywhere. A big lunatic asylum at Tvorok, in the zone of fighting near Warsaw, had to be evacuated. A detachment of troops was sent with orders not to use violence. The doctors contrived a long rope of tied towels, telling the inmates if they let go of it they would be shot by the Germans. All were thereby taken to the railway. A few recalcitrant women scratched, bit and kicked the warders."

DWIGHT HILLIS SCORES INVASION OF BELGIUM

Predicts a Glorious Future for the Southern States.

In his lecture last night on "The America of Today and Tomorrow," at the Auditorium-Armory, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the famous Plymouth church of Brooklyn, and one of America's foremost writers and lecturers, in glowing terms painted to his audience the most marvelous industrial transition ever recorded in the world's history, which he predicted would take place in the southern cotton states during the next ten to twenty years. He predicted that the opening of the Panama canal would bring to the south England's vast cotton industry.

Referring to the European embroglio, Dr. Hillis scathingly attacked the national honor of Germany in violating its treaty with Belgium. Concerning Germany, he said:

"A German statesman a few days ago in a public speech declared that to serve the purposes of militarism the state knew it was doing wrong in Belgium, but after the war was ended the wrong would be righted.

Germany Dishonored.

"The German youth is told that his nation is doing wrong by the nation's leading statesman. With God as a witness, I say to you that Germany's treaty with Belgium to observe her neutrality was made under the solemn eyes of God Almighty—and Germany has forever impeached her national honor.

"No nation for a hundred years will ever have faith in her treaty promises.

"The burned cities of poor Belgium, the destroyed farm lands and temples of God, the outraged women and children and slaughtered youth of the little country can never be righted. All the water in the River Rhine from Germany could never wash from Germany's treacherous hands this bloodshed of an innocent and peaceful people, who only wished to maintain their neutrality."

Dr. Hillis' lecture last night was the 1,546th in twenty years.

For two hours Dr. Hillis spoke, and for two hours his audience listened, unconscious of the time. With a mass of statistics, Dr. Hillis crammed his arguments that this country is destined to be something like a second Paradise, or better.

Future of South.

Referring to the south, Dr. Hillis spoke as follows:

"The greatest section of the country in the next ten to twenty years will be the south. The greatest industrial transition ever staged in the world's history will transpire during that period in the cotton states. There are ten million people in England who make a living on the cotton industry, and a large part of their output is shipped to Asia and eastern countries."

"The opening of the Panama canal has destined the south to become industrially great. It has brought into prominence the vital question of freight rates. England's cotton industry is going to be bankrupted by this question of freight rates, or moved to the southern states, with its millions of people dependent on it, and hundreds of millions of dollars of machinery and capital, where it will be closer to the eastern market through means of the Panama canal.

"But the greatness of the America of tomorrow depends not on the greatness of its resources, its wealth, but upon the nation's ability to manufacture men of great souls.

"This is dependent upon four things: The public schools, the American political institutions, the respect and worship of God, and the sanctity of the American home.

"Here in the south, where we find the purest standards of political democracy, and the most chivalrous types of homes, are the greatest opportunities for manufacturing a race of great souled men to govern a greater America of tomorrow."

GREECE HAS DECIDED TO RE-OCCUPY EPIRUS

Powers Are Notified Step Will Be Taken to Restore Order. No Intervention at Avlona.

London, October 27.—The Greek diplomatic representatives at the capitals of the great powers have given official notice of the decision of the Hellenic government to reoccupy Epirus, from which the Greek army was withdrawn in March in pursuance of the decision reached at the ambassadors' conference fixing the status of that country.

Greece claims that this decision is based upon the necessity of re-establishing order and security in a country adjacent to her territory now riddled with anarchy, but at the same time she declares that this reoccupation is a purely provisional measure and that she has no intention of intervening in the Alvona district.

According to a message reaching Rome from Avlona, Albania, telegraphs the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company in the Italian capital, 600 regular Greek soldiers with one battery of artillery, have arrived at Vasiri, and attacked the Mussulman position at Cheghi, forcing them to retreat. The Greeks then started for Kerciovo.

Advices from the interior declare that Greek Epirotes have bombarded, burned and occupied the villages of Scialisi, Busi, Topeleni, Rubzi and Premedi. These towns are in Albania, not far from the Grecian frontier.

According to the latest accounts received in Copenhagen the German emperor is in good health and spirits.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids. Splendid for System.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

STATE CLUB WOMEN OPEN CONVENTION

Address by Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, President of Federation, Features Opening Session at Albany.

By Isma Dooly.

Albany, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The opening session of the state convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs tonight was conceded to be the occasion of the largest assemblage in the history of the club movement. The auditorium was filled, and when Hon. Henry A. Tarver, mayor of Albany, greeted the club women in behalf of the city of Albany, he stated no more representative audience had ever assembled in Albany. The men and women coming together to discuss movements and problems of common interest meant a new era in state prosperity, he predicted.

John Mock, representing the chamber of commerce, was greeted with applause and exclamations of appreciation. He greeted the delegates and congratulated them on the success of the cotton exposition. He is chairman of the local committee in charge of that enterprise. He commended the cotton campaign of the women as timely, patriotic and practical.

Mrs. W. C. Holt Speaks.

Mrs. W. C. Holt was the first woman speaker. She welcomed the delegates as president of the Albany Women's club. Miss Rosa Woodberry, of Atlanta, replied to the addresses of welcome.

Mrs. L. J. Haley, president of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, was the visiting speaker on the program. She spoke of the values of federation, and the timeliness of the women of the eleven cotton states, standing together to do their part in solving the south's problem.

The brilliant address of Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the Georgia federation, was the feature of the program, which concluded with music and an informal reception.

Address by President.

There was a back-to-the-home ring in the address made by Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, at the opening session of the state convention here tonight that forcefully illustrated the principle of the federated club movement, which is to help the woman first and foremost in her business of managing the home, and the extension of the home into the school and the community life, whether in the city, the small town or the rural district.

The opening session of the convention was held in the Albany auditorium, and when Mrs. Fitzpatrick, a distinguished figure, stepped to the front of the stage she was greeted with enthusiastic applause and given the chautauqua salute.

She stood under a canopy formed of garlands of woodland bamboo, hung with cotton bolls, and from the ceiling there swayed a huge hamper basket overflowing with cotton. Cotton stalks decorated the rostrum and the walls.

The seats were upholstered in cotton cloth, and a carpet extending the length of the auditorium was of white cotton burlaps.

MRS. NELLIE PETERS BLACK,

Wearing the costume of cotton goods, woven in the Crown Mills, of Dalton, Ga., trimmed in Quaker lace, made in Philadelphia of Georgia cotton. Her stockings were made in a Georgia factory; her petticoat of cotton goods made in Georgia, and the costume hand-made by a Georgia woman. Mrs. Black will make the leading address at the cotton session of the Albany convention.

Tells Good Story.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick told a good story in her introductory remarks, illustrating the practicability of the woman's club movement, when she described a club woman who was defining to a western audience the meaning of household economics. After she had explained all the good things coming under that head, an old man in the audience looked up quizzically and said: "Why that ain't nuthin' new; it jes' means takin' keer o' things, and that's allers been a woman's wurk; that's what a woman's fur—a man provides and a woman takes keer."

Just how to take care of things in the very best way is the slogan of the club movement, explained the clever speaker, as she argued for a more industrial trend in the common school system—the making of good providers in the boys and the making of good caretakers in the girls.

"Women must be taught to make bread," she said; "to use their heads and hands as well as their hearts."

Through the 244 clubs of the Georgia federation, it was argued, the women of the state could send forth continually through all sections the dominant thought of the moment.

Therefore she explained the cotton exposition lining the walls of the auditorium, demonstrated the lesson the women of the state should know and teach their children today. In the exposition, she explained, was to be seen not only every phase of the cotton industry, from the seed to the most beautiful fabric made of it in foreign and domestic factories, but to be seen the concentrated effort of organized Georgia women, the exposition representing a work of six weeks' time and containing more exhibits and more practical suggestions than the woman's department of any exposition yet held in this country.

Successes of Federation.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick reported successful work of club women in acquiring legislation regulating public health, child labor and social reforms, and urged renewed effort for the securing of a compulsory education law in Georgia.

Work for education was referred to in the growth and progress of the Tallulah Falls Industrial school, built and maintained by the club women of the state; the student aid fund, by which girls were being educated, and the scholarship fund. In the last few years Mrs. Fitzpatrick estimated that through the funds secured by the Georgia federated club women, $128,367.14 had been distributed for educational and social betterment in the state of Georgia.

There are over three hundred delegates in attendance at the convention, with fraternal delegates representing many organizations not federated. Two thousand people were present at the opening session tonight, which concluded with a brilliant reception, Mrs. N. C. Holt, president of the Albany Woman's club, the acting hostess.

SERVIAN TOWN WRECKED BY AUSTRIAN SHELLS

London, October 27.—A dispatch to The Times from Shabats, Servia, says: "This city presents a desolate spectacle. Two hundred and fifty of its buildings were destroyed by bombardment. This was followed by fire, doing more damage, and then came an earthquake, shaking the city so severely that the houses which remain are almost falling to pieces.

"Hundreds of the local populace who were killed by bayonets thrust for various alleged misdeeds were buried by the Austrians in the local church yard.

"The senseless bombardment still continues, although the town is deserted except for the sentries. On Thursday the Serbs succeeded in laying mines which sank an Austrian monitor."

Shabats is an active trading town of Servia, located on the Save, 40 miles west of Belgrade. It had a population of about 15,000 persons.

Ask Father If This Is True.

(From Woman's Home Companion.)

In these days of the high cost of living the following story is not without a decided point.

The teacher of a primary class was trying to show the children the difference between natural and man-made wonders, and was finding it hard.

"What," she asked, "do you think is the most wonderful thing a man ever made?"

A little girl, whose parents were obviously harassed by the question of ways and means, replied as solemnly as the proverbial judge:

"A living for his family."

SNIPING IS CONTINUAL FROM THE TRENCHES

In Eastern Part of Aisne Valley Hostile Lines Are Only Few Hundred Yards Apart.

London, October 27.—The correspondent of The Morning Post, writing from a point near Rheims under date of Saturday and discussing the situation in the eastern part of the Aisne valley, says:

"It is possible that the Germans intend to hold this line all winter, and if they fortify their positions it is quite possible that they can do so. It is certain that they can make no further move forward into French territory.

"Around Rheims there is now only one point where the Germans have heavy artillery and this consists of only one big gun and twenty pieces of smaller field artillery. These are all Austrian. This artillery is located near Borru, some distance from the city, which, however, is well within the range of the big gun. This gun, a rapidly moving piece, pulled by a motor tractor, contents itself with a shot or two daily.

"The German infantry lines, however, are much further advanced. The German trenches at Betheny run in a long unbroken line around to the right of Cornay. At no point are the French trenches more than a few hundred yards away.

"The Germans have lost no ground since the French recaptured Rheims. There is continual sniping from the trenches. The ground between the trenches is thickly covered with barbed wire entanglements.

"Four hundred German prisoners were taken Thursday and brought into Rheims. They made the customary German complaints of extreme hunger, but the French are beginning to be skeptical as to these complaints, for the prisoners bear no signs of famishment.

"The German officers boast that the German strength lies in the superiority of their artillery and the efficiency of their spy system, both of which have been only too well proved during the campaign. The German lines show frequent signs of activity calling for constant watchfulness in this vicinity.

"In the meantime the artillery duel along the eastern part of the Aisne valley is being continued with great violence. Although the allies seem to hold the advantage, the battle here is far from ended and the strong fortified positions held by the Germans will call for exceptional measures."

ROSE GARDEN OPENED.

Large Gathering at New Cafe in Hotel Winecoff.

A merry-making spirit of carnival reigned last night when Atlanta's quaintest restaurant, the Rose Garden, in the Hotel Winecoff, threw open its doors under auspicious circumstances. Large crowds of elaborately dressed diners gathered around the tables from 6 until midnight, creating a scene that was truly metropolitan in all respects.

The Rose Garden has been constructed beneath the office floor of the Winecoff under the supervision of Manager J. F. Letton and Frank Reynolds, assistant manager. It is one of the south's most tasteful cafes in decorations and appointment.

Clusters of artificial flowers and vines mingle with natural plants along the pictresque columns and trellis work. Soft-tinted lights of varied colors add charmingly to the flower-garden effect, and the sound of rippling water from a cleverly esigned fountain carries the charm of a woodland dell, inspiring the diner to forget that it is only a scenic arrangement several feet beneath the asphalt of busy Peachtree above.

Over in the corner near the entrance stands a tiny cottage, open on all sides, in which a typical ante-bellum negro mammy, clad in bandana and apron and as fat and smiling as the lovable slave of old, fries "Old Aunt Dinah chiken" right before the eyes of her patrons. Beyond her, on the other side of the entrance, is the orchestra stage and vaudeville gallery.

The Winecoff has engaged W. W. Hubner's orchestra for the season and Mrs. Frank Pearson, who will sing exclusively in the Rose Garden. She was compelled to acknowledge numerous encores last night with "I'm on My Way to Tipperary," in the chorus of which most of the diners joined.

The opening hours of the Rose Garden will be from 11 o'clock in the morning until midnight. Individual culinary apparatus and service have been installed with a corps of imported chefs.

WAR TAX OF GEORGIA.

State Will Have Paid $350,000 by January 1.

Clerks in the office of the collector of revenue estimate that by January 1 Georgia will have paid approximately $350,000 war tax into the federal treasury, representing its share of the government's war assessment.

The tax of $1.50 a barrel on beer has already become effective, and the department has sold a number of beer stamps. Levies are made on pool tables, bowling allies, bankers, brokers, pawnbrokers, theatrical proprietors, circus managers, commission merchants, tobacco dealers and manufacturers, but the tax does not become effective until November 1. Documentary stamps will be put in use by December 1, and will cover bonds, notes, express and freight packages, telegram messages and other things.

Atlanta is expected to pay about $70,000, or one-fifth of the tax of the state.

FIRING WITH SHOTGUNS, GUARDS CHASE CONVICTS

Joliet, Ill., October 27.—Two escaped convicts raced down the main street here tonight a hundred yards ahead of a score of prison guards, who were firing shotguns at them while pedestrians dodged into doorways to avoid the shots. The convicts, John Stacy and John Crawford, were caught.

Judge Saunders Dead.

New Orleans, October 27.—News was received here today of the death at Evington, Va., of Judge E. D. Saunders, for many years dean of the law department of Tulane university and former law partner of Chief Justice White, of the United States supreme court. Judge Saunders served as United States district judge here for three years, resigning from the bench in 1910.

Bryan on the Stump.

St. Paul, Minn., October 27.—Secretary William J. Bryan made a plea here tonight in behalf of democratic candidates for state and congressional offices, particularly advocating the election of W. S. Hammond as governor. He praised the accomplishments of President Wilson and expressed optimism regarding business and financial conditions.

Wilson Heads Federation.

Columbia, S. C., October 27.—C. L. Wilson, of Charleston, was today elected president and P. W. Schischkas, of Columbia, secretary-treasurer of the South Carolina State Federation of Labor, before adjournment of the annual convention of the organization here today. Charleston was selected for the next convention.

LAND FOR BELGIANS WILL BE DISCUSSED HERE NOVEMBER 24

Quitman, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) The following resolutions have just been announced by the executive committee of the Brooks County Industrial club:

Whereas, the movement started in Brooks county to secure some Belgian refugee farmers for Brooks county has taken such a grip on the whole state and from so many sections have come requests to assist them in the securing of some of the Belgians; and,

Whereas, the matter has thus broadened in scope vastly beyond what was intended in the original movement in Brooks county; therefore, be it

Resolved, first, That the exceedingly high character of the Belgians and their unusual efficiency as farmers, makes it exceedingly desirable for Georgia, if possible to secure some Belgian families for every section of the state. Second, that in order that the matter may be handled in the most intelligent and effective way that a committee of not less than fifty from different parts of Georgia be named by the president of the Industrial club, including the following:

Robert F. Shedden, W. H. Allen, J. D. Price, James R. Gray, Clark Howell and John Temple Graves, of Atlanta; A. B. Moore, C. A. Hunter, J. W. Howard, William Fawcett and Frank J. Skeffington, of Savannah; A. L. Long, E. W. Stetson and J. Clay Murphey, of Macon; Thomas W. Loyless, of Augusta; Walter J. Woodall, of Columbus; J. J. Farrell, of Bainbridge; D. L. Beattie, of Albany; A. J. Rowe, of Athens; S. S. Spear, of Box Springs; James W. Jackson, of Cornelia; Mrs. J. F. Minis, of Clarkesville; R. L. Moss, of Cutting; Mrs. F. Holmes Johnson, of Gray; J. A. Coursey, of Lyons; H. H. Jarrard, of Ray's Mill; J. N. McClendon, of Dawson; E. H. Graves, of Toccoa; H. F. Coyne, S. Pedrick, Royal Daniel, L. W. Cuddy, A. C. Gates, B. G. Malloy and S. J. Faircloth, of Quitman, and such other names as may be deemed advisable.

Third, That a meeting of this committee be called to meet in Atlanta on the 24th of November for the standardizing of the proposition from all Georgia to the Belgians and for the making of plans for the carrying forward of the work of securing these exceedingly attractive emigrants for the state.

(Signed.) Herbert W. Stubbs, J. H. Malloy, Denmark Groover, S. J. Faircloth, John F. Townsend, M. A. Brantley, E. T. Williams, executive committee, Brooks County Industrial club.

The committee announces that additional members of the Georgia Belgian refugee committee will be named in a few days.

Columbus, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The rural department of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce has been called to meet tomorrow to take up the matter of bringing Belgian farmers to Muscogee county.

SHACKLED MAN FOUND BURIED UNDER COAL

South Mansfield, La., October 27.—A. E. Oliver, who made a sensational escape from two Wyoming deputy United States marshals by jumping from a rapidly moving train at Marthaville, La., Sunday night, while heavily shackled, was captured here today. He was found hiding in the tender of a freight engine and was buried under the coal.

Oliver is wanted at New Orleans on the charge of holding up a Louisville and Nashville passenger train some weeks ago when Fireman Thomas Elgin was killed by one of the two bandits who relieved the conductor and a transfer agent of $20.20. He has twice escaped from Mississippi jails.

It Puzzled Him.

(From Judge.)

Silas—I hear your son left that small town and went to the city to have a larger field for his efforts.

Hiram—Yes; and that's what gets me. When Hank was home, a two-acre potato patch was too big a field for him.

AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Seats were at a premium yesterday at both performances at the busy Forsyth. This fact argues strong that the bill is of that quality that local theatergoers want. And as a matter of fact there has been one of the genuinely heavy advance sales for all the remaining afternoon and evening performances this week. The bill is one of unusual worth. There is a variety of good things from the start of the show until its finish. There is comedy, just the sort to put people in a good humor at this period; there is music that soothes; there is novelty that makes one forget any sort of trouble and there is a bit of everything this is entertaining. "A Telephone Tangle," the headline feature, is one of the great big star acts of the present moment. Only one other act has held attention in New York as long as the record of this top-liner.

Kellermann Repeats Success.

(At the Grand.)

Annette Kellermann, "The Diving Venus," in her great success, "Neptune's Daughter," is proving a wonderful drawing card at the Grand this week. A stranger would imagine from the crowds attending all performances that this was the film's first engagement in Atlanta, while as a matter of fact it played here in June to the greatest and most enthusiastic audiences that ever attended a place of amusement in Atlanta. The former engagement was for nine days, and four performances were given daily. The stay this time is for a week, with seven performances daily, running continuously from 12 noon to 10:30 p. m. Regardless of the big business this week the engagement cannot be extended, and the management urges everyone to not put off attending the performances to later in the week.

Great Tunnel Pierced.

Berne, Switzerland, October 27.—(Via Paris.)—A five-mile tunnel through the Jura mountains from Moutiers, France, to Grenchen, Switzerland, was pierced today after three years of uninterrupted work. The tunnel will shorten railway communication between Paris and Berne and Paris and Milan. It cost $5,000,000.

COTTON TWINE IS USED ON ALL FERTILIZERS

Department of Agriculture Heads Move to Use More Cotton.

The state department of agriculture has blazed the trail in Georgia in the use of cotton twine instead of jute twine. They have advocated the use of cotton twine in place of jute for many weeks, and Tuesday they put their "preaching" into practice.

Thousands of balls of cotton twine were received at the department Tuesday, and hereafter all samples of fertilizers and other articles shipped will be wrapped in cotton twine.

Spend $5,000 for Cotton.

The J. I. Case Threshing Machine company, of Racine, Wis., Tuesday announced that they would purchase $5,000 worth of distress cotton through their Atlanta branch office, of which I. E. Burk is manager.

Only distress cotton is to be bought, and 10 cents a pound will be paid for it. The Case company claims to be the largest builder of steam, oil and gas engines, threshing machines and automobiles in the United States. They have approximately 10,000 calers in America.

A. P. Coles, vice president of the Central Bank and Trust company, of Atlanta, which corporation is lending millions of dollars on cotton at 6 cents a pound, announced Tuesday that 2,000 bales of loan cotton had arrived in Atlanta, and the first consignment would be stored in the new Candler warehouse this morning. He stated that the first unit of the Candler warehouse was completed, and would hold 5,000 bales of cotton, and that the second unit of the warehouse, which is to be a duplication of the first, would be ready in a few days.

Mr. Coles spoke enthusiastically of the success with which the Candler plan of lending money to farmers through the Central bank's country banks and customers on cotton was meeting. "The plan is really meeting with greater success than we anticipated," said Mr. Coles, "and Mr. Candler is more than pleased with the possibility of doing good.

Fritz Buys Cotton.

Otto H. Fritz, prominent Cincinnati manufacturer and capitalist, is in Atlanta on a short business visit. While in Atlanta he has discussed the cotton situation with several business men of this city, and has expressed the determination to use his influence in having the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce memorialize the United States government in behalf of southern cotton growers. He realizes that relief in the cotton situation will result in untold benefit to his own city, since Cincinnati manufacturers are so largely dependent upon southern business prosperity for their own success.

Mr. Fritz has recently shown his confidence in the ultimate alleviation of the present cotton crisis by purchasing fifty bales of cotton at 10 cents a pound.

MANY DANCING TEACHERS DO NOT PAY LICENSE

When council's tax committee meets Friday afternoon, City License Inspector Ed. Hayes will place with the members a complaint made to him by the director of a prominent dancing academy to the effect that a number of persons are engaged in the business of giving dancing instruction without paying a license.

Inspector Hayes says that he investigated the complaint and learns that more than fifty dancing academies have sprung up within the past six months. The city requires a license fee of $50, and in addition the proprietors must get authority to do business from council.

AID FOR ENGLAND MAY BE SENT TO CONSUL

The Constitution is in receipt of a letter from A. M. Brookfield, British consul at Savannah, in regard to subscriptions for the Prince of Wales Relief fund.

It has been suggested that British residents of the state and possibly many others would welcome an opportunity to contribute to this fund. This can be done by forwarding subscriptions to Mr. Brookfield, who will send them through the foreign office to his royal highness, the prince of Wales.

For Aid of Little Children Big Card Party to Be Given

A mammoth card party is to be given at Druid Hills club next Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the child's welfare committee of the Woman's club to raise funds for the annual Christmas tree given by the organization to the needy children at the Woman's clubhouse.

Tickets are 50 cents and may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. H. Clay Moore, Mrs. Stephen Hook or Mrs. T. H. Latham. Handsome prizes will be awarded winners. They were donated by business men of the city who have entered heartily into the spirit of the enterprise.

Few know of the splendid work of the welfare committee. Last year it began with a Christmas tree given to 165 destitute children. Through the courtesy of the Georgia Railway and Power company the youngsters were transported to the clubhouse. This year—the same as last—each child will be given a stocking filled with goodies, fruits and toys. Also a sweater or cap or shoes.

Presents will also be sent to the sick children who will be unable to come. Last year there were sixty of these. During last winter the welfare committee gave shoes to more than 123 barefooted children and furnished 135 with warm clothing.

During the summer certified milk was furnished the sick babies of the needy. Much progress was made in settlement work and other charitable enterprises.

The prizes for Friday's card party will be a handsome sterling silver vase, donated by Davis & Freeman, first prize; a beautiful boudoir lamp, by Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company, second prize; a piece of Dresden china, by Dobbs & Wey; a handsome bamboo jardiniere, by King Hardware company, and a bamboo flower vase, by Mrs. Erwin Thomas, will be the succeeding awards.

TWO BANKS DEPOSIT WITH LOCAL RESERVE

Third National of Atlanta and First National of Utoy, Ala., Comply With the Law.

Two member banks have deposited 1 per cent of their capital stock with J. A. McCord, governor of Atlanta's federal reserve bank.

The first deposit was made by the Third National Bank of Atlanta, of which institution Governor McCord is vice president. Frank Hawkins, president of the bank, turned over $18,000 in gold, and a short while afterwards $1,450 in gold was received from the First National Bank of Utoy, Ala. Both deposits will be held by Mr. McCord until the bank is formally organized. He will then turn it over to the secretary and treasurer.

Under the federal reserve act, the member banks are not required to make their deposits until November 2.

It was learned yesterday that more than five hundred applications have been received by Mr. McCord for fifty jobs in the bank. Many of the applicants are men who have but a limited training in banking business and are not fitted for the positions. Mr. McCord received from Secretary McAdoo on Thursday a complete set of the bookkeeping blanks and statements to illustrate the system which will be used. Mr. McCord explained that the system will require the work of experts—men who have had long training in banks. He said that the directors will be forced to take the best men they can get from banks of Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans and other cities. The salaries will be fixed by the directors subject to approval by the federal reserve board.

Mr. McCord said Tuesday that in addition to the duties already upon him incident to the organization of the bank, he has been interrupted in his work by persons who have the idea that the bank will serve the public and who are asking for information.

"The reserve bank will be a bank of banks," said Mr. McCord. "Its dealings will be principally with banks."

M. B. Wellborn, chairman of the directors of the bank, will be in Atlanta Thursday, and it is probable that there will be a directors' meeting Friday or Saturday.

FULTON GRAND JURY MAY PROBE NELMS CASE

The Fulton county grand jury may take up the prosecution of Victor E. Innes and his wife, the suspects in the Nelms disappearance mystery.

Marshall Nelms, brother of the missing girls, Beatrice and Elois, conferred with Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in this regard. He submitted an amount of data bearing on conspiracy to murder charges that will be instituted against the man and woman in case they are brought before the Fulton courts.

Although neither would talk, it is reported that the solicitor agreed to take the case under consideration and put it before the grand jury if prosecution failed in San Antonio, Texas, where the prisoners are under indictment for murder.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT FOR EXTRA SESSIONS

Afternoon School Sessions Will Be Held for Some Time to Come.

According to President George M. Hope, of Atlanta's school board, there is little likelihood of the number of afternoon sessions in the public schools being reduced to any great extent.

President Hope conferred with Superintendent W. M. Slaton Tuesday with reference to the number of afternoon sessions in the public schools and was informed that there are still twenty-one being taught.

Superintendent Slaton says that he has put into use every auditorium, basement and library at all suitable and has converted the rooms into class rooms. He says that unless more room is provided for the classes outside of the school buildings it will be impossible for the board to reduce the sessions to any greater extent.

President Hope says that the $11,812 apportioned by the finance committee for use in the October apportionment was for the specific purpose of employing additional teachers. He says that there is a city ordinance which prohibits the school board from using any part of the money for any purpose other than for employing teachers.

Members of the school board say that the conditions in the schools have been relieved by the employment of forty-five additional teachers, and they point out that the teachers who have been assigned to the double classes are not forced to teach more than thirty children to each class.

RAILROADS SEEKING TO TAKE OFF TRAINS

The Seaboard Air Line, the Georgia railroad and the Atlanta and West Point route Tuesday petitioned the state railroad commission for authority to discontinue passenger service on a number of their lines, affecting fourteen passenger trains.

The date of hearing the petitions was set for November 12.

The commission has already granted permission to these railroads to remove passenger trains on a number of their lines, and also to other railroads, since the outbreak of the European war and subsequent lull in business activities in the south, which, the railroads claim, has seriously affected their passenger traffic.

The Georgia railroad asks to take off trains Nos. 5 and 6, running between Atlanta and Augusta; and Nos. 9 and 10, between Union Point and Augusta; and to decrease the service of trains Nos. 30 and 35, between Macon and Milledgeville.

The A. & W. P. route asks to take off trains Nos. 33 and 34, between Atlanta and West Point.

The Seaboard petitions for authority to discontinue a number of trains, which follow:

Trains Nos. 17 and 18, between Elberton and Abbeville, S. C., which trains now run between Atlanta and Abbeville; trains Nos. 23 and 24, between Savannah and Thalma, which now run between Savannah and Jacksonville, and trains Nos. 19, 20, 21 and 22, between Savannah and Columbia, S. C., and substitute one train running between Fairfax and Columbia.

U. S. CHAMBER MEMBERS REACH ATLANTA TODAY

Distinguished Guests Entertained at Dinner Tonight by Chamber of Commerce.

The directors and officers of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who are making their first tour of the south to study present conditions, will arrive in Atlanta this morning. They will be met by a party headed by Mell Wilkinson, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; F. J. Paxon, chairman of the entertainment committee of the local chamber, and Robert F. Maddox, vice president of the national organization, and taken over the city in automobiles.

The visitors will be entertained at luncheon today by Mr. Maddox at his country home. At 6:30 o'clock this evening they will be given a dinner at the Chamber of Commerce building, and 100 covers will be spread. President Wilkinson will preside, and addresses are to be made by John H. Fahey, of Boston, president of the national organization; Mr. Maddox, Mr. Wilkinson and a representative of the government.

Of no less importance to the south is the presence as guests of the directors of two of the newly-appointed commercial attaches of the United States department of commerce. They are making the tour, through the courtesy of Secretary Redfield, preparatory to proceeding to their posts abroad and taking up their new duties. The exclusive function of the new corps of commercial attaches, of whom Secretary Redfield has appointed nine, is to promote American trade with the countries to which they are respectively assigned, to act as ambassadors of American business abroad and to create and stimulate the demand for American goods in foreign lands.

The attaches who are members of the party are: Dr. C. W. A. Veditz, assigned to France, Belgium, Spain and Switzerland, with headquarters at Paris; and Edwin W. Thompson, assigned to Germany, England and Scandivania, with headquarters at Berlin. They are visiting the south pursuant to instructions from Secretary Redfield, in order that they may come in personal contact with southern business men actively or prospectively interested in export trade.

The directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce are touring the south in order to gain opportunity for personal observation of present business conditions, and to come more closely in touch with its membership in this section. They are devoting three weeks time to their journey through nine great southern commonwealths.

Other prominent guests of the local chamber of commerce today will be nine officers and directors of the board of trade of Anderson, S. C. They will be met at the train this morning and driven over the city in automobiles by St. Elmo Massengale, Robert L. Foreman, Ivan E. Allen, E. C. Calloway, J. T. Holleman and W. J. Davis.

The Anderson delegation will be entertained at luncheon by this committee, and will attend the dinner at the Commerce building in the evening.

WALTER L. M'GILL DIES.

Was One of Best Known Railroad Men in South.

Walter Lee McGill, secretary of the Southern Freight association, died Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock at his home, 691 North Boulevard, after a confining illness of three years, during which time he transacted his business at his residence. He was 50 years old, and leaves a wife, who was formerly Miss Ida Goldsmith, of this city, and two small children.

Mr. McGill was born in Bainbridge, Ga., and had lived in Atlanta for twenty-five years, or since his entry into the service of the Southeastern Freight association.

He was probably the best posted railroad freight rate man in the south, and was noted for his excellent memory. It was not an uncommon thing for Mr. McGill to furnish information regarding the happenings in meetings fifteen years ago, depending entirely on his memory, and the information he furnished was looked upon as accurate.

He entered the railway service in 1882 as a clerk in the office of H. W. Woolf, who is now manager of the Southern Weighing and Inspection bureau, a railroad organization in the Grant building. Mr. Woolf was at the time auditor of freight receipts for the old East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway at Knoxville, Tenn.

From Knoxville, in 1883, he came to the office of J. J. Griffin, assistant general freight agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia in Atlanta, where he remained about two years. He was later employed in several railroad positions, and in 1888 or 1889 accepted a position as rate clerk in the office of the commissioner of the Southern Railway and Steamship association, remaining with that association and its successors until the time of his death. He was made chief clerk of the association in September, 1890, and secretary on January 1, 1894, succeeding A. Pope. The Southern Railway and Steamship association was succeeded by the Southern States Freight association in 1895, and the latter was, in turn, succeeded by the Southeastern Freight association in 1897.

Mr. McGill had been in poor health for twenty years, suffering from rheumatism.

The funeral will be held from the residence this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, will officiate and interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

MRS. CRAWFORD CLEARED

No Bill Is Found Against Her on Murder Charge.

The most sensational phase of the noted Joshua B. Crawford will case—the charge of murder against his wife—was ended Tuesday when the grand jury returned a second no-bill against the widow, Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford.

The battle over the will, however, will continue in the civil courts. She was accused of having murdered the husband five years ago to obtain his $25,000 estate. The failure of the jury to indict, however, it is agreed by court officials, will have no bearing on the civil end of the case.

The most important testimony before the jury Tuesday was that of Dr. N. F. Harris, state chemist, which was read in affidavit form. Dr. Harris testified that he made an analysis of the dead man's stomach four years after death and had found traces of morphine poisoning, with which his widow was accused of having caused his death.

M'CORD IS BESIEGED BY MEN WANTING JOBS

Joseph A. McCord, vice president of the Third National bank, of Atlanta, and governor of the new federal reserve bank, which opens in Atlanta on November 16, is being besieged by application letters from an army of young bank clerks seeking positions with the new bank.

"Only expert bank clerks, though, will have a chance to get a position in the reserve bank," said Mr McCord. "The ordinary bank clerk will have little or no chance at all. Expert bank clerks are being chosen from Atlanta banks and other banks in the section."

However, Mr. McCord's desk daily is covered with a pile of applications from all sorts of clerks. "I hate to see some of them disappointed," ended the bank president, as he pointed to the big pile.

GOVERNOR IS SUSTAINED BY OGLETHORPE FARMERS

Lexington, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—A large mass meeting of farmers of Oglethorpe county unanimously passed resolutions agreeing to reduce the cotton acreage next year, and appointing a committee from each district to secure the co-operation of all the cotton growers of the county to this end. They pledged themselves to make their farms self-sustaining. A striking feature of the meeting was the fact that by unanimous action of those present they indorsed the action of Governor Slaton in refusing to call the legislature together. While several of those present thought two weeks ago that a special session of the legislature was advisable they have, without exception, changed their mind since the action of the Texas and South Carolina legislatures, believing that if the Georgia general assembly enacts penalization legislation now it will simply have the effect of punishing the Georgia farmer, while putting an actual premium upon enlarged production in other states.

AUTOIST INJURED BY RUNAWAY MULES

Augusta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) In an automobile accident last night W. M. Nixon sustained a broken rib and other injuries. A party of men were coming toward the city, the car being driven by Nixon. Meeting a team of runaway mules the car could not be turned in time and the tongue of the wagon smashed the windshield and struck Nixon on the side. The others in the car were uninjured.

War Reveals Waste of Food

Apprehensive over food shortage, the London press is advising the English people to save and utilize every article of food value, including the bran coating of grain.

Why? The outer coat of grain holds the precious mineral elements which means so much in vital building and up-keep of body, brain and nerves. And yet the modern miller throws out about four-fifths of these priceless food elements just to make the flour look white and pretty!

Isn't it astounding that it took war to wake people up to such a fearful waste!

Nearly twenty years ago the crying need of a food which would fill the lack caused by demineralized white flour products led to the making of —a wonderfully nourishing and appetizing food containing all the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the vital mineral elements, just as nature designed them for our use.

Grape-Nuts

A daily ration of this crisp, wholesome, ready-to-eat food along with other food will soon prove

SPIRIT OF HALLOWE'EN IN DEBUT TEA-DANCE

One of the prettiest debutante parties of the season was the tea-dance given by Miss Lawson Hines yesterday at the home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. J. K. Hines. Miss Hallie Morton, of Tennessee, who is visiting Miss Mary Hines, was guest of honor, and the debutante set with as many gentlemen were invited.

The spirit of approaching Hallowe'en, suggested in the decorations, entered into the gayety of the occasion. Fall flowers and fruits and foliage were a colorful setting, the lights winked through jack-o'-lantern heads, black cats and red devils and a real witch brewed her portions in a big black pot over a wood fire.

An orchestra played for the dancing. The guests were received in the drawing room and there a decoration in autumn leaves and pink and white chrysanthemums that was effective. The debutante was surrounded by her debutante bouquets—a fragrant massing of every kind of bloom the hothouses are producing. She held an armful of pink rosebuds and was herself a rosebud picture in a dainty pink gown, fashioned of chiffon and silver lace with finish in fur.

Branches of autumn leaves and vases of yellow chrysanthemums decorated the reception rooms, pumpkin heads with jack-o'-lantern faces peered out of the corners and strings of popcorn and red peppers were festooned overhead.

Punch was served in the sun parlor, the bowl set in a great pumpkin hung with grapes. In a small room adjoining, which was lined with autumn leaves, a witch stirred her pot over an open fire and told fortunes.

Miss Elizabeth Hines and Mrs. Kemp Slaughter served punch and Mrs. Luther Rosser, Jr., and Mrs. James Wells poured tea.

Christening Services.

An interesting event of Sunday morning, October 25, was the christening ceremony of Caroline Henderson Paulson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Paulson, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Henderson. Dr. C. B. Wilmer, of St. Luke's church, performed the ceremony just before the morning service. Mrs. W. H. C. Rose and Mrs. Slaughter Linthicum acted as godmothers, and Mr. Slaughter Linthicum was godfather.

School Tea.

The faculty of the English-Commercial high school has issued invitations for an informal tea on Friday afternoon, the 30th, from 3:30 to 5 o'clock, to the mothers of the students of the school.

Birthday Party.

One hundred little folks had a beautiful time at the Piedmont Driving club yesterday when Miss Margaret Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lowry Porter, gave a birthday party.

It was a fancy dress masquerade and the ballroom was a gay scene of moving color when the quaintly costumed little figures danced to the music of the talking machine.

The pretty young hostess herself wore the "Pustinella" costume, the garb of the Greek peasant girl, which her mother brought her recently from Europe. It was an artistic costume in white with blue velvet bodice and coat, and the little Greek slippers were worn with it. Robert Lowry Block received with her—a handsome "Little Boy Blue," who showed that he is learning new steps preparatory to the new dances. Fannie and Valeria Rankin and Alberta Lewis were a charming little trio assisting the hostess, and a group of ladies assisted Mrs. Porter: Mrs. Bates Block, Mrs. Fred Lewis, Mrs. T. D. Meador, Jr., Mrs. Walter Maude, Miss Helen Brown, Mrs. Edward Van Winkle and Mrs. Francis Block.

Several figures of the cotillon were danced, for which there were pretty favors—balloons and flags and caps and other souvenirs—and Professor Zebley, who was one of the guests, led these figures with the little hostess.

Refreshments were served at one end of the ballroom, all the children seated at a long table picturesque in its decorations of yellow. The centerpiece was of chrysanthemums, and at each place were more favors and Hallowe'en decorations.

Bags of confetti, too, were given the children, and they filled the air with the gay streamers and their own laughter.

A moving picture show held them spell-bound for another half hour, and the whole afternoon was made one of perfect childhood happiness.

Mrs. Sewell Entertains.

Mrs. J. A. Sewell was hostess at a pretty tea yesterday afternoon at her home in College Park in compliment to Miss Eugenia Richardson, a charming bride-elect.

The house was beautifully decorated with smilax, palms and ferns as a background for handsome white chrysanthemums filling baskets and vases.

A tall crystal vase arising from a plateau of fever few and maidenhair fern and filled with big white chrysanthemums was in the center of the tea table in the dining room and the canopy chandelier above the table was decorated with smilax and fringed with white flowers. Silver candlesticks had white unshaded tapers and all other details of the artistic table were in white and green.

Assisting in entertaining were: Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. J. P. Gresham, Mrs. R. L. Proctor, Mrs. Claude Yow, Miss Sarah Broom, Mrs. J. F. Bradley, Mrs. Henry Leonard, Jr., Misses Frances Gresham, Dorothy Haralson, Marion Bradley, Margaret Martyn, Daisy Carleton, Grace Kener, Ellen Kener, Nellie Croley and Helen Smith.

Spend-the-Day Party.

Mrs. T. W. Johnson will entertain at a spend-the-day party today at her home at East Lake. The guests will include Mrs. J. J. West, Mrs. O. L. Jernagin, Mrs. A. L. Norris, Mrs. Percy Taylor and Mrs. H. O. Reese.

Bulloch Court Convenes.

Statesboro, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Bulloch county superior court convened this morning, with Judge Park, of the Ocmulgee circuit, presiding instead of Judge Rawlings. Owing to the torn-up condition of the courthouse there was no April term of court and the present term will have to dispose of a year's business and the docket is naturally an unusually heavy one. It was announced today that Judge Rawlings will be here next week. Solicitor General R. Lee Moore is looking after the state's interest.

LODGE SCORES WILSON FOR MEXICAN POLICY

Worcester, Mass., October 27.—The administration's Mexican policy was sharply criticised by United States Senator Lodge in a speech at a reception rally here tonight.

"There were only two policies to pursue," he said, "one of total abstention and the other of efficient intervention. The administration, with extraordinary ingenuity, adopted neither course, but pursued a system which had the defects of both."

The senator pictured the democrats as "making a loud appeal for support on the ground that we are at peace and that the present administration has kept us at peace," and said:

"There is no peace in Mexico or with Mexico. Our navy holds a Mexican port. Our army holds a Mexican city—a city in a foreign country—and may be engaged in fighting at any moment. If this is the peace of which they boast as achieved in Mexico, it is of a queer and unusual kind and with a most precarious hold on existence."

SETTLE WILL DISCUSS NEED OF PLAYGROUNDS

A broader recognition by Atlanta of the need for playgrounds and recreation facilities for her citizens of all ages will be urged by T. S. Settle, Thursday, in his address before the Ad Men's club of Atlanta on the recreation system proposed for the city. Mr. Settle is field secretary of the National Playgrounds and Recreation Association of America. He will illustrate his talk with a number of stereopticon views. The Ad Men will hear him at their regular weekly luncheon meeting, which will begin at 1 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce cafe.

Order of Eastern Star To Give Brilliant Ball

Unique and beautiful will be the ball at the Auditorium tonight under the auspices of the Order of the Eastern Star.

The benefit is for the fund which is to educate the orphan children of Masons, and both the cause and the brilliance of the ball mean a handsome patronage.

The Auditorium will be decorated and a large string orchestra will provide music for the dancing.

A spectacular feature of the occasion will be an elaborate drill by the patrol of the order. They have been trained by a member of a Masonic patrol, and their attractive costumes will add to the picturesque character of the drill.

The floor committee consists of Mr. Guy Thurman, Mr. Paul Burkert, Mr. W. B. Cummings, Mr. F. C. Thayer, Mr. W. E. Fine, Mr. George Argard, Mr. Wesley Hirshburg, Mr. W. M. Mixon, Mr. J. C. Before a large audience, that completely filled the handsome auditorium of the new First Church of Christ, Scientist, Bliss Knapp, of Boston, made a stirring address on Christian Science.

SUFFRAGISTS TO MEET.

Annual Convention at Piedmont Hotel Next Saturday.

The first annual convention of the Equal Suffrage Party of Georgia will convene in the Piedmont hotel next Saturday. This being the first annual convention of the party, it is anticipated that it will be largely attended and of much interest to equal suffrage workers throughout the state.

Mrs. Emily C. McDougald, the president of the party, will preside over all meetings.

The Equal Suffrage Party of Georgia, and the Fulton and DeKalb county branches are moving into their downtown office, and it will be formally opened Saturday afternoon, with a tea in honor of the delegates to the convention.

"WOMEN ONLY" ATTEND MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

There will be a meeting for "women only" at the First Methodist church this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Evangelist Klein, assisted by Dr. DuBose, the pastor, and Soloist Boyd and his wife.

A special invitation is extended to all the Christian women of Atlanta of all denominations to attend, as Mr. Klein has a message for the wives and young ladies of the city which, he says, will be of interest and importance to them.

The two weeks' revival at the First Methodist is attracting large crowds at both morning and evening services. Evangelist Klein made a talk to the young men of the city Tuesday evening and the church was taxed to almost its seating capacity.

The revival will last through the week and will close next Sunday night. Services are being held every morning at 10 o'clock and every evening at 7:30 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

SLATON WILL SPEAK TO FARMERS AT MILLEN

Governor John M. Slaton left Atlanta last night for Millen, Jenkins county, Georgia, where he will today address a large assemblage of farmers and business men of that section of the state. The governor will talk to them to curtailment of the 1915 cotton crop, and what it means to them to see that curtailment is carried out among themselves, without legislative compulsion.

He will also talk on the diversification crop movement, and will urge the farmers to raise grain and hay, food products and cattle.

His speech will be delivered at the Five-County fair, which is now being held at Millen.

He will return to Atlanta Thursday morning.

A New Principle in Complexion Treatment

Most creams are injurious when used habitually. They clog the pores and eventually form a permanent, soggy, stifling film which interferes with elimination action and makes the skin sickly and pasty. There is an application—mercolized wax—which acts upon an entirely different principle. While perfectly harmless, it has the peculiar property of removing by absorption the dead and half-dead particles of scarf-skin, as well as unhealthy matter in the pores. Thus it takes away from instead of adding to the complexion, differing in this respect from cosmetics. The result is a perfectly natural and healthy young complexion. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store (one ounce is sufficient), is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

The correct principle in the treatment of wrinkles is to tighten the skin, which naturally irons out the lines. A face bath, remarkably effective in this direction, may be made by dissolving 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel.—(adv.)

SUFFERED AWFULLY NOW QUITE WELL

A Lady's Suffering Was So Intense, That at Times, She Was Unable to Straighten Her Body.

Walnut, N. C.—"About 12 years ago," says Mrs. S. W. McClure, of Walnut, "I began to fail in health, getting worse all the time. I wasn't able to do my work, suffering awfully at times with pains in sides, especially the right side, and none of the time was I well.

Sometimes I could not straighten up my body for the intense suffering. I suffered more or less all the time, and was irregular.

As Cardui had helped others, I started trying it. I bought six bottles, and after using two or three bottles, I commenced improving, getting better all the time, until I was entirely well.

I became strong and healthy, gained flesh, weighing 120, being just a shadow when I commenced taking Cardui. My work is a pleasure, and I feel like doing my work since, for the cure was permanent, and I have been well and strong ever since.

Cardui is a fine medicine for suffering women, and I recommend it to all my friends who have womanly trouble."

Thousands of women have written to tell of the help Cardui has been to them. Cardui is a mild female tonic, acting especially on the womanly organs. It has shown itself of great value to sick, weak women. It is surely worth a trial.

Begin taking Cardui today.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

How by merging control of national guard and the regular army the United States may achieve an adequate standing army without the burdens, dangers or expense of militarism or compulsory service, is the theme of a timely article in The Infantry Journal, published in Washington, of which the author is General Albert L. Mills. General Mills is well known in Atlanta by reason of his recent command of the department of the gulf. The article was delivered as a lecture before the Army War College, in Washington, and is reproduced by The Infantry Journal because of its peculiar timeliness and its authoritativeness, General Mills being head of the department of state militia in the war department. In that capacity he is, necessarily, in close touch with the national guard, and is intimately familiar with its strength and weakness.

General Mills' first and broad premise is that the nation requires a larger reservoir of trained military energy upon which to draw. He would create this reservoir by amplifying and amending the statutes now regulating the connection between the national guard and the war department, narrowing the "twilight zone" existing between the two, and substituting uniformity and standardization for lack of co-ordination and coherence. General Mills' plan does not contemplate an enormous body of men constantly under arms, or taken away from civic employment. He would have such a perfect entente between national guard and standing or regular army, such a control of the national guard in time of peace by the war department, as would, at the first sign of hostilities, automatically mold national guard into regular army, making of the two a homogeneous fighting machine, with the same weapons, similarly trained, with similar discipline.

With candor, General Mills outlines eleven cardinal defects in the present laws governing the national guard, the correction of which he urges as imperative to the development of an adequate, trained military force in this country. They are as follows:

1. They estop full development of military strength of the nation; i. e., no plan provided for making use of unorganized or reserve militia.
2. They include a state volunteer system. Section 24, under which volunteers are to be organized as provided in act of April 22, 1898—a system which experience has shown to be weak and vicious. This we hope will be corrected by the passage of the Hay Volunteer Bill, H. R. 7158.
3. Organized militia greatly lacking in cavalry and field artillery, sanitary units and other special arms necessary to make it a balanced force—no means provided to enforce correction of this deficiency.
4. They provide no reserve—essential, as minimum strength of all organizations is much below war strength.
5. Governors have complete control until muster for federal service—can reorganize, increase, or decrease its strength, discharge or appoint for political reasons, and government must take what is presented.
6. No way of enforcing service of members of organized militia refusing to obey call.
7. Military codes of states not uniform.
8. No uniform term of enlistment and re-enlistment—men cannot be held to serve beyond term of commission and enlistment—a force begins to melt away as soon as called into service.
9. Call must go through governor—no way of coercing governors to enforce call.
10. Entire organized militia, without regard to arm needed, must be called into service in advance of any volunteer force. This, also, we hope will be corrected by the passage of the Hay Volunteer Bill.
11. The secretary of war denied by the comptroller of the treasury the authority necessary to assure the expenditure of federal funds for organized militia so as best to accomplish purpose for which appropriated.

General Mills advocates the passage of the so-called "pay bill," making possible compensation for the national guard in "undergoing at home stations a prescribed course of armory training."

In this connection, he points as follows, the penalty of absence of defined compensation and consequently lacking central authority:

> It must be borne in mind that under the present law the United States has not under its control a single member of the organized militia until the status of federal soldier is established. Our greatest difficulty in all past proposed legislation on the subject of pay for organized militia has been in attempting to positively insure to the federal government that when a crisis comes demanding the use of troops, it will securely secure the militiaman upon whom it has spent its money and who has presumably been trained thereby.

He shows that there is now no such security. Neither has the government, which provides equipment, the right to specify what arm of the service certain states shall train for, or any control whatever over the morale and management of the troops, a condition that ends in confusion, lost motion and futility.

Coming from such a source, and at this particular time, General Mills' keen analysis is a notable contribution to the discussion as to what the country as a whole should do to strengthen its national guard.

THE ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

This is no time for Atlanta to permit the dissolution of the Associated Charities. Consideration of it should not even be entertained. Winter is upon us, and, whether it ought to be so or not, we face the condition of having more unemployed than at any time in the city's history. It is now and within the next few months that the work of the Associated Charities will mean most.

With the splendid spirit exhibited by the well-known business men who took part in Monday's meeting at which the resignation of the directors was tendered and refused, there would seem to be no good reason for terminating the existence of this organization. All Atlantans need is to have the situation put properly before them to be given the right understanding of it, and it can scarcely be questioned that they will come strongly to its support.

Organized charity has not flaunted itself nor its work, but it has a record of achievement which should make it not only a permanent institution, but a bigger one every year. In removing mendicancy from the streets, it has rendered every Atlanta home, every business man, a direct service. This is a service which is worth any man's contribution, and the average man is glad to give it. He can give as he wishes, either for the support of the organization or for personal relief of the needy, with every assurance that his funds will be applied as directed.

Hundreds of formerly unemployed owe good positions today to the assistance of the Associated Charities in finding them work when they wanted it. The organization has rendered a constructive service by helping others to help themselves. It has snatched men from the verge of idleness, beggary and perhaps from crime, back to industry and self-respect.

Somebody must do these things, for "the poor we have always with us;" and if organization fails, the problem goes back to the individual. The impracticability of individual charity has been too well demonstrated. It opens wide the door to the fraud and the faker, while the deserving often suffer most. And the time of keenest suffering is at hand.

We have great faith in the committee which has been appointed to investigate the situation and report what should be done at once to save the organization and its splendid service to Atlanta. It is only a question of an investment, and one that pays a handsome return. We believe Atlantans will be glad to make it.

A WORTHY RECOGNITION.

In recognition of the long and valued services of its former president, James M. Lynch, recently resigned to accept the appointment of labor commissioner of the state of New York, the International Typographical union has just voted him a gift of $10,000.

The action of the union is as strikingly interesting from the viewpoint of the expression of gratitude as it is from that of worthy recognition of ability and effort which were put to best account. Through a period of fifteen years' incumbency of the office of president of the union many important things were accomplished, chiefly through the labors of President Lynch and his associates. These include the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, which has been enlarged, and whose activities and usefulness have been greatly increased; the old age pension system, which is now in successful operation, and which has been declared one of the best philanthropies ever inaugurated by any body of workingmen; the training school for printers, and many other benefits and advantages which are widely enjoyed and appreciated by the craft.

In serving the printers, Mr. Lynch has also been of valuable service to the public. There is no more notable feature of his administration than the preparation and final adoption of the plan of arbitration for the settlement of wage and industrial disputes. Mr. Lynch has always furthered and urged the adoption of this plan, and the results achieved bear out his beliefs in it. It is notable that since the adoption of this plan there are fewer strikes in the printing business than any other line of work. It has been a lesson to other organizations, and if more of them would adopt and follow the same principle, labor troubles would gradually become a thing of the past.

In the accomplishment of these things Mr. Lynch has, of course, had back of him the support and good will of the large majority of the members of this organization; with serious antagonisms neither he nor any other man could have done them. Printers the country over were glad to have opportunity to recognize through this donation the splendidly successful services of their former president, and along with it their hearty good wishes and those of the newspapers generally follow him into his new field of activity where opportunities will not be lacking for the use and display of his well-demonstrated ability.

The Chicago News says that the activities of the German cruisers Karlsruhe and Emden recall those of Semmes and the Alabama.

The Pittsburg Gazette-Times says "it is too much to hope that the war poets have gone to the war." Doubtless because their lines are not of the firing line stamp.

"A Life-Note."

There is a charming lyrical note in these lines, by "L. A. N.," contributed to this column:

"Had I but chanced in youth to be,
The first brown bud upon the tree
To swell and burst; and glad your eyes
With tender tints of gray and green,
With glints of gold and silver sheen,
Fair gifts from sunny skies;
First to nod, to wave, to beck
To dimple in the mind with smiles
As you went passing by;
And had you then but smiled to me,
I could have been content—
Content to live or die."

Just a "Punkin" Pie!

This eloquent outburst in George Bailey's column is due to the influence of one little "punkin" pie:

"A punkin pie, invested with all the glorious qualities of pastry, filling and flavor, came into the commissary yesterday with the compliments of a Houston-Hoosier suffragette. If such punkin pies as this could be put into general circulation, there would be no need of ballots. Mankind would be too civilized to need governments. Much of the discord and misery in the world today is due to ignorance of punkin pie."

The High-Flown Limit!

Fine autumn weather was responsible for it, and here it is, from The Ohio Advance-Era:

"From the time that the great satin-finished copper sun sheds its dawning mellow effulgence over slumbering Perrysburg, filtering its golden rays through a dreamy azure haze, until it sinks into chromatic glory behind battle-scarred Presque Isle Hill, leaving its iridescent trail to be followed by the aluminum-plated queen of night, it is one prolonged inhalation of inexpressible ecstasy. And nowhere else but on the classic and historic, garden-spotted and kine-trampled banklets of the gentle and seductive Maumee is life so full of ripe contentment and soul-soothing glory."

October shines the skies of blue—

"We're Glad We Are Here."

Uncle Judd Mortimer Lewis voices his thankfulness for the blessings of peace and prosperity, as follows:

"It is no private fight, it's a grand free-for-all! A dozen come in for each dozen that fall! and all of the map of old Europe's a smear, and that is the reason we're glad we are here. We're glad we are here 'neath America's skies. Big pumpkins wait here to be made into pies, the harvest moon's shining, the grapefruit is ripe, we're glad we are here with our pickles and tripe."

Many Things Necessary If Georgia Is to Cease Being One-Crop State

By J. D Price, Commissioner of Agriculture.

Strenuous and immediate action by the farmers, bankers, railroad men, brokers, warehousemen, and commercial oganizations is necessary and imperative to change Georgia from a one-crop state to a state producing and marketing on a large scale wheat, corn, oats, hogs and cattle.

In other words, there is no sense in talking of large diversified crops and extensive live-stock raising unless facilities are provided for handling and marketing the new crop and the stock.

Georgia farmers have heard that wheat grows here as abundantly as in any state in the west; they have been told often how fine cattle can be raised here more cheaply than in the west; they have heard time and again how Georgia could put a Chinese wall around herself and live inside the wall. All of these possibilities have been dwelt upon before; what we want to do now is to get down to actualities.

There are now and have been for years past, warehouses in every town in Georgia to which a farmer can go in the spring of the year and borrow money on his growing crop. What is the crop? Grain? No—cotton and more cotton. Each year he increases his crop, and borrows money on the increase for supplies and necessities. Cotton has represented to him money, food, drink, clothing, amusements, everything.

What I want to she now is this: Grain warehouses all over the state, conducted like cotton warehouses have been in the past, with adequate arrangements for handling grain in large quantities. They should be conducted so that the farmer can realize now that, when the time of the year comes, and he harvests his crop of grain, he can load up his wagons with grain, drive to the warehouse, and get a small advance on his crop, just as he did with cotton. The grain can stay in the warehouse until the farmer gets his proper price for it just as he did with cotton.

Someone will say that he can sell everything he raises right here in Georgia. I agree with him. I fully agree that everybody in the state would prefer to buy home stuff instead of foreign produce, but we must arrange things so that this buyer can buy home produce when he wants to.

Today a wholesale grain merchant in Atlanta or any other large town who wants to buy car loads of grain knows that he can buy any number from the west, and that they will be shipped at once. He would rather buy car-loads of Georgia grain, but he knows of no place where he can put in a large order and be sure of prompt fulfillment. So he orders from the west.

We must change this if we expect to be successful in raising grain as a large crop. Any man in Georgia knows plenty of places where he can buy any amount of cotton; he would not think of sending to Texas for it. Let us make that true of wheat and other grains; let us establish many grain markets in Georgia where the broker, next spring, can buy any number of carloads at a moment's notice.

Wheat sold for 92 cents a bushel when the European war started; it has now gone to $1.12, and is daily increasing in price. Farmers in the west are even now holding for $1.25. The war means prosperity for them and for the cattle men, when so many others in this country are facing financial loss. It will mean prosperity for the Georgia farmers if they have grain and cattle to sell in the spring, when prices will be still higher. Wheat fields generally yielding twice as much as those in the United States are now standing in Europe and Russian Asia with rotting grain.

With Georgia's climate furnishing green forage all through the winter, as contrasted with conditions on the snow-bound plains of some of the great western cattle states, finer and better cattle and other stock can be grown here than in the west, and for less cost.

Mrs. Ohl Wants News of The War, and Plenty of It

(Annulet Andrews Ohl in New York Sun.)

I have just read The Sun's editorial on the people who are "tired of the war news," and I want to thank you for it a thousand times. If the light headed and ignorant people of America won't read war news they ought to be shut up and have war news read to them until they have a liking for it, just as Catherine of Russia drubbed the barbaric populace of her country into the theater and made them listen to classic music. If any intelligent person is prejudiced against war news he only has to read it to become a sworn slave to its revelations.

Good heavens! there is nothing worth reading, nothing worth investigating or thinking of just now but war news. The daily papers contain the most horrible, the most unbelievable and marvelous story the world has ever known, nor is it all horror. There are deeds of valor, of glorious patriotism certainly never exceeded in any stage of the world's history. There's Belgium, a wonder, a marvel through and through. It was a fairy country, full of fairy cities, and out of its castles and towers have marched men like knights of old. Do you think I'd miss reading every word written about that valiant young Belgian king and his people fighting, fighting eternally, brave and splendid against that terrible army? And the boys over there on the battlefields, the boy who shot Von Buelow at Liege and escaped in his uniform; the boy in France who stood up and let himself be shot rather than betray the army in the forest! I know Belgium and France will love them; and in them today the fairy tales and old legends of valor are revived. Just recently in Belgium the people were ordered to leave the little towns by night, the Germans were coming, and they fled in tears and silence, carrying what they could in their arms and leaving their homes open to the terrible soldiers, bread and wine and meat spread on the little tables to pacify them, clean beds to sleep in, all comforts to soften the hearts of the ogres. Fairy tales, Grimm's fairy tales, and the Belgian king is the gallant knight, and I pray God he may slay the monster of cruelty scattering desolation and misery over the country.

And there's England to think about and read about: England, whom the continent of Europe can no more call "perfidious," sending her little bit of an army at the first over there to face terrible slaughter, doing it calmly as a matter of course, as England does such things. How decent they have been, too, to the enemies within their gates, how controlled and characteristically cool and civilized!

And France! Well, I'm half Fench and the tears are coming and I can't write all I feel about her, but I can see her army and I can see her women and children tolling at home and in the fields, patient, eternally industrious and cheerful withal in sorrow and death. Ah! France has such splendid women. And all around the world my mind travels with the great war every day, battles on sea and land, the Japanese storming the forts of Tsing-Tao, the poor Germans and Austrian women huddled up in the guards' quarters in Pekin awaiting the almost certain death of their men. Pekin, think of that! I lived there three years. It is a tiny village cosmopolis, a long street lined with fourteen legations surrounded by sixteen miles of wall! And do you know that the Austrian and German and British guards there had to be disbanded for fear they might slay each other on the street? Think of it, these young lieutenants who played tennis and polo and bridge together yesterday are down at Tsing-Tao today killing each other! And, dear God, for what?

Two years ago in Pekin on every Saturday there gathered about my samovar young officers, British, French, Russian, German, Austrian; dear young lads, happy, friendly, like one big family. Today I do not know whether any of them are dead or alive. Since I have set my feet on all the lands where war now rages, of course I may be more keen on it than some other Amercans, but if I'd never traveled at all I'm sure this war would interest me intensely.

I read nothing else day by day. It takes up all my reading time, and even then I begrudge the hours I have to give to other things. If I had more time I'd go into all the wars that have been and read all the war poems ever written, just to have more war. It is the most wonderful thing the world has ever known, and please, dear old Sun, continue to give us every detail of it and let the other things that don't matter lie over in your pigeonholes till the world gets quiet.

LOSS IN PACKING THE COTTON CROP

Editor Constitution: It is really true that thirty pounds is deducted in price daily from cotton, whether sold at 5, 10 or 15 cents per pound, solely on account of the careless, indifferent and wasteful manner in which every bale of cotton is packed. And year after year has passed and still the waste goes on, and in the past ten years the southern states have lost between four and five hundred million dollars from this one source of carelessness alone, and an American bale of cotton is the most ignorantly and carelessly cared for valuable package in all the world. This great waste and loss can never be stopped until first we realize it exists.

The tare of thirty pounds contemplates 9 yards 2½-pound bagging and ties 7½ pounds.

The only way possible to stop this fabulous loss is to compress cotton at every gin to the standard size of 27x54 inches, and cover same with a quality of cotton duck that is worth as much or more in any market in the world than it has cost to produce.

When cotton is carefully packed, correctly ginned and packed in a standard size compressed bale, wrapped with a cotton duck covering, and correctly and honestly weighed and graded at gin, and so guaranteed by responsible ginners, cotton so cared for will always sell for at least $10 a bale more than under the present careless and wasteful way of handling, and the cotton mills all over the world would rejoice to know that every bale of southern cotton from henceforth would be ginned, packed and wrapped correctly.

Surely an item of dollars amounting to over $400,000,000 should attract attention of the southern people at the present time.

And this amount has been thrown away and lost in the past ten years.

It would be a very easy error to correct. Just first realize the importance and value of a bale of cotton and then care for it as it should be.

The department of agriculture at Washington issues a bulletin on cotton tare and illustrations made of bales of cotton in all the world's markets, and the bales shipped from America alone show careless and wasteful packing.

This causes the loss of thirty pounds tare and a higher insurance and freight rate charged against American cotton.

So, in these days of adversity we should consider and plan that no gin should be allowed to handle a bale of cotton unless they are prepared to properly pack in a standard size bale.

And now is especially the time to learn the lesson and put it into execution, and save over $400,000,000 by properly caring for each and every bale of cotton and presenting it to the markets of the world in merchantable condition.

"An Outspoken Champion Of the South's New Era"

(From Orange Judd Southern Farming.)

J. T. Holleman, of Atlanta, pobably knows Georgia conditions as well as any one man. A native of Bibb county, Georgia, he is to the manor born. As president of a well-known mortgage company he probably has loaned more money to southern farmers than any other individual. For these reasons, his recent letter in Atlanta Constitution is of largest importance, for Mr. Holleman charges:

1. The south is in the grip of a cotton-growing oligarchy, more powerful than the ante-bellum slave-owning oligarchy.
2. Seventy per cent of the south's farm lands are under control of landlords, largely absentee.
3. Ninety per cent of the south's agricultural activities are influenced by this oligarchy.
4. Its members do not want and will not encourage nor permit any large crop other than cotton.
5. Their influence is responsible for the fetish of all-cotton and the persistent failure to diversify.
6. Without an awakening on the part of this oligarchy, reduction of cotton output and diversification are a dream.

The charge made by Mr. Holleman is true, but there is much that he does not say that is equally true.

Certain bankers, merchants and middlemen have fattened for years by an unholy, unrighteous and illegal plucking of southern farmers. Indeed, it is customary with some merchants to charge farmers anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent higher for rations, that is, for goods furnished on credit or crop lien, than the same goods sell for at spot cash. We do not have to take anybody's word for this, because we were reared right here in this country, and know of these things from first-hand knowledge. This thing is still going on to a great extent. In some respects it is worse than robbery. It is taking away from those who are not in a position to help themselves.

Yet the merchant who continues this practice does not consider that he is robbing those whom he supplies. When asked why he charges such ridiculous prices, he will reply: "Well, I have to protect myself. I will lose a good bit on some, and I must charge all of them heavily so that I can make up on those that I do lose." These middlemen have been taking these profits so long that it will be very hard for them to reform. Even in a crisis like the present, some of them have been unable to put patriotism above pelf. If they would all accept cotton at 10 cents a pound in full payment for all debts due as of November 1, 1914, that perhaps would be about the fair way out of it for all concerned.

Some of our southern bankers have been patriotic, and have done everything possible to meet the situation.

Some country banks have hoarded their funds and jacked up interest rates unduly. But let us be honest enough to say that some of the banks in the reserve cities of the south have not done this, and many country banks likewise have done all that could be expected of them during this crisis. But this is not true of the mean, narrow-minded, close-fisted, sanctimonious moneylender, rural merchant or banker who for years has sucked up like a leech the fruits of the labor of the common people in his own neighborhood.

Oh, yes, our southern farmers have even more to contend with than Mr. Holleman so ably sets forth. If the present crisis wakes them up to realize the truth, every dollar of loss to cotton growers and spinners will yet yield a handsome income.

The scales are falling from the people's eyes. They will no longer be content to be led by the nose by a coterie of politicians and middlemen whose purpose is to "skin" the white man as they have the black.

Because the farmers of the south as never before are waking up to the situation is why Orange Judd Southern Farming has such confidence in the new era we now foresee.

The time is here for still more marked effort to fully bring about such changes. The movement is coming up through the people themselves.

All about them our people see conspicuous examples of farmers and their families who have risen above the dispiriting level of the many, and have joined the increasing ranks of what a few years ago were the few—men and women who by energy, health, thrift, gumption, vim, persistence, organization, courage and patriotism are gaining substantial homes, successful farms and a position of independence and leadership in their respective communities.

These are the makers of the new south, not the old type of shylocks and middlemen of whatever name who have so long sucked up the very life-blood of the people.

We know that we voice their sentiments and the aspirations of the whole south in declaring that the time has come for a new deal and a square deal. Disappointed by depending upon politicians, the legitimate agricultural and business interests of the south have been forced to realize that they must depend upon themselves. When an enlightened people thus grasp the great truth that self-help is the best help, already we, the said people, have taken the first step toward the better prosperity that shall be as permanent as it will be all-embracing.

Thinks Georgia Should Give Bounty on All Meats Grown in State

Editor Constitution: There has been a great deal said about reducing cotton acreage and about the state taking action to force a reduction, and even about the national government taking hold of it and putting an extra tax—a heavy tax on all over so many bales to the farm, or to the mule, or to the man, or some such adjustment—and I believe there has been some such a move to get people to pledge not to plant so much cotton another year.

In my opinion all the legal steps taken in that direction would be unjust and unconstitutional, and a man that will make such a pledge as that against his will and against his interest and judgment is not apt to stick to it. I think it is about as just to tell a man that he shall only go so far in any other occupation. Cotton raising is some men's talent. Let them follow that business to their own satisfaction.

Suppose the west was to put some kind of restriction on raising grain or stock. Now, let us look at this question from the other side. Let every man that wants to, grow cotton, grow cotton as much as he can to the mule. All he can to the land, to the acre or any other way. Let him grow as much of anything else as he wants to or can.

Why not levy a war tax now of so much a bale on cotton as a punishment on the cotton growers for growing so much, and maybe he will not grow so much next year for fear he will have to pay another war tax. This would be about as just as to put any other restraint on one's occupation and either would be sectional and unjust legislation.

Now, let's get to the point. Cotton should bring more money than it does. But now, instead of punishing the man that raises too much cotton, let's offer an inducement for him or his unsuccessful brothers to raise something else that will suit his talent better, and let the successful cotton raiser go on. That is his talent.

In my opinion this is the key to the whole situation. We don't need much money if we have everything we do need. Meat is the greatest proposition and is getting higher and scarcer Now let the state of Georgia give a bounty on all meats, including fish and fowl, grown in the state, of so much a pound, enough to induce some to go into the raising of cattle, hogs, sheep, goats, fowls and fish. Beef is high, pork is high, cows are high, pigs have doubled in price in the last few years. Why? You see cows and sows going to the slaughter pen. There are no sheep or goats in the country to speak of. Why? Killed for meat. Now, to encourage the raising of meats of all kinds would be to encourage the growing of all other kinds of foodstuffs both for man and beast. Did you ever know a man who had plenty of corn to feed his hogs and fodder for his cows, who did not have cornbread for himself, or bran for his milch cow and shorts for his sow and pigs; who did not have flour for himself, or peanuts for his fattening hogs to root, that did not have some for his children?

To encourage raising meats in this way would be to encourage the growing of almost every kind of foodstuff. Stock will eat the waste from the garden, the potato patch, and from the orchard. Peas are excellent for hog-food, as well as for cattle and horses. Apple pumice from making cider or vinegar put in a good box will keep a long time and will almost winter the stock hogs. Sugar beets grow well and after the sugar is extracted the pulps are excellent food for almost any kind of stock and can be kept the same as apple pumice by cheap form of silage. Bermuda grass grows well in all parts of Georgia and is excellent for pastures as well as many other grasses and weeds.

I firmly believe that if the state would encourage this in the way of a bounty, it would bring meats and other foodstuff to a more reasonable price and would reduce the cotton acreage and would put both foodstuff and cotton on a firmer basis.

Yours for the betterment.

Building Grain Elevators Throughout the South

Editor Constitution: I notice that in several places in Mississippi meetings have been held with the purpose of considering the advisability of building grain elevators.

In 1905 when we had a similar condition, several communities met and proposed to erect packing houses. At that time I protested against this, but one was erected at Natchez, and went into bankruptcy, and I feel quite sure that it will be several years before we need any grain elevators in Mississippi.

That we need an enormous grain crop next year cannot be questioned. We can undoubtedly sell any kind of grain at any railroad station in Mississippi at a handsome profit. For the past three years the United States has not only not exported grain, but has actually imported it in large quantities. The present year we have grown the most enormous crop ever grown in our history. The price is higher than for years, and must continue to advance.

A recent report of our agricultural department shows that while we have grown an enormous crop, yet the grain crop of the world is two hundred million bushels short of last year. In many places in Europe the present grain crop has not been harvested, and neither are the lands being re-seeded, and unless the southern states put their entire area in grain next year, there will be many hungry people throughout the world another season.

Two large grain crops never follow in succession, and we should grow all the grain we can to reduce as far as possible the cost of living. We have thousands of people now out of employment, and these people are entitled to a living, and must be fed. After next year the southern people should grow cotton. I agree that this is a cotton country, and if grown along sane lines, would make us the richest people in the world. All of us should, however, produce our own food crops—grain and meat—and then grow all the cotton possible.

I feel that we have learned our lesson, and that in the future this will be done. Not a pound of grain, excepting next year, should ever be shipped out of the south, except on four feet. We should have in every community small flouring mills and make our own bread, but I cannot believe that we need grain elevators. There are now several in Mississippi that have been idle for years.

Our lands need building up. This can be done with live stock better than in any other way, and if we should proceed to grow grain and ship out the grain, we will not enrich our soils, but will continue to rob them of their fertility. So let's don't get hysterical and spend money uselessly on grain elevators, but let's proceed along sane and rational lines, and prepare not only to grow our own grain and meat, but also to build up our soils by the same process.

TWINS DRESSED ALIKE.

"I've always dressed them alike," their proud mother tells us. "People think it's so attractive." Yes. She's right. It is attractive—altogether too attractive. It's so attractive that almost before they learn to talk they've learned to show off. Their little minds have grasped the fact that people consider them unusual. Betty, encouraged by feminine exclamations of admiration, picks up the edge of her little dress and begins to pirouette. Dolly quickly learns to follow suit. With the result that by the time they reach their teens, they will be well developed egoists. Their minds, instead of being bent on studies and healthful sports, will be introspectively turned—incessantly gauging the effect they are making on people. And by the time they reach their twenties, they will be rivals. When before they played to the gallery altogether, they will now regard each other with professional jealousy. Whether or not they continue to dress alike now, makes no difference; the damage is done. That early dressing alike did it.

They're striking poses.

BALLARD TO BE HEAD OF MASONS OF GEORGIA

Delegates to Convention Optimistic Over Business Outlook in the State.

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—With 1,300 official delegates in attendance and about two hundred other visitors, the largest gathering of its kind ever held in Georgia, the grand lodge of Masons convened here today in its 128th annual communication.

The large attendance was commented on by many today because, in view of the financial depression, it was thought the attendance would be smaller than usual. Delegates were far from pessimistic over the business outlook, the general sentiment seeming to be that the south, with its usual determination, will find a way to solve its problems.

The meeting this morning was strictly of an informal nature, no session being held this afternoon. A business session was held tonight, when reports of committees were heard. An effort will be made to complete the business of the grand lodge so that adjournment can be taken tomorrow night, cutting the meeting to a two days' session instead of three.

Ballard to Be Elected.

It was generally conceded that N. H. Ballard, of Brunswick, now deputy grand master, would be elected to succeed Robert L. Colding, of Savannah, as grand master tomorrow. Each of the other grand lodge officers will be advanced, it is understood, all of them having held their present office for two years.

The suggestion that the Masons of Atlanta would attempt to carry the 1915 meeting to that city was put to rout today by several Atlanta Masons, who said no such attempt would be made, they being satisfied that the grand lodge had decided on Macon as the permanent local last year in a manner that is not open to question. The opinion is expressed by many delegates that no action will be taken this year relative to building a temple here, the time not being ripe for the big expenditure that it will entail.

Grand Master's Address.

In delivering his annual address to the grand lodge at the morning session Grand Master Colding stated that during the past year eight new lodges have been formed and that the other lodges have enjoyed unusual prosperity. The finances of the grand lodge, he reported, are in excellent condition and many new members have been added to the rosters. Masonry, its teachings, its influence on American and other nations and its strength in every clime was the burden of the grand master's address. Concluding, he admonished the delegates to the grand lodge to enter upon their duties imbued with a spirit of Masonry.

This afternoon many of the visiting Masons went to Central City park to inspect the Georgia state fair grounds and it is probable a number will remain in Macon after the grand lodge sessions to attend the 1914 state fair, which promises to be the best yet held.

STINSON SPEAKS TO NEGROES OF DECATUR

Decatur, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Richard D. Stinson, principal of the Atlanta Normal and Industrial institute, made an address to the Negro Social and Working club tonight. He said:

"I want to commend each of you 140 persons belonging to this working club. First, because you have the proper idea of life; second, because our race will yet see the wisdom of trying to be decent, intelligent and self-respecting when they work with the hands or do what most of us call menial work. The majority of our people go at their work in a shiftless and indifferent way, and as a rule they study it only when they are at it, and too large a number not even at that time. Many of us believe that it reflects upon us as a race or our intelligence or good name to say that we are doing menial work.

"This statement does not mean when we are working for others, but for ourselves. We are dying at a rapid rate because we do not like to work for ourselves to keep clean except to dress up and to show ourselves. It was never intended that all could be professionals and the race will suffer in proportion as we look upon work as a hardship or a disgrace."

BIRMINGHAM EX-MAYOR PASSES AWAY IN MACON

Macon, Ga., October 27.—Thomas Jeffers, 76 years of age, a one-time mayor of Birmingham, Ala., died here last night at the home of his niece, Mrs. Thomas R. Hudson.

Following the war between the states Jeffers went to Birmingham, Ala., where he installed the first water works and sewerage system of that city and later the first electric light systems. He was elected mayor later and served two terms of four years each, and during his administration the first paving of the city was laid. Age and failing health caused him to come to Macon to make his home.

During the civil war he was a blockade runner and gained some prominence in the confederate army for that service.

TEN AMENDMENTS WILL BE VOTED ON MONDAY

Several Important Changes in State Constitution to Be Ratified at Polls.

Ten constitutional amendments, ratified during the last session of the general assembly, will be voted on at the general state election which will be held next Tuesday.

Four of the proposed amendments relate to the creation of new counties which, if approved by the voters, will increase the county representation of the state from 148 to 152 counties.

In accordance with a proclamation issued by Governor Slaton on August 3, 1914, the voters will pass on the proposed amendment providing for additional compensation for judges of the superior court of the Macon circuit. This amendment provides that Bibb county, out of its own treasury, may pay the judges of the circuit any compensation, in addition to the salary paid by the state. This amendment will place Bibb county on the same basis as Fulton, Chatham and Richmond counties.

While the amendment only affects Bibb county, it must be voted all over the state. The amendment has been generally approved, and it is expected to pass.

Another important amendment to be passed on by the voters changes the constitution so as to give the city of Savannah the privilege of abolishing the justice of the peace courts and establish in lieu of such courts any court or system of courts which the legislature deems wise and proper.

Act No. 463, which is also an amendment to the constitution, provides the legislature with authority to abolish the office of county treasurer in any county. This amendment will also be voted on at the general election.

Act No. 464 proposes an amendment to make the terms of county officers elected four years, instead of two, and act No. 462 proposes an amendment extending the terms of members of the legislature who were elected in 1912.

Four New Counties.

Bacon county to be laid out of the territory of Appling, Pierce and Ware, with Alma, Ga., as the seat, to be attached to the eleventh congressional district, and the Waycross circuit.

Barrow county to be laid out from Gwinnett, Walton and Jackson, with Winder, Ga., the county seat, and to be attached to the ninth congressional district, Western judicial circuit and thirty-third senatorial district.

Candler county, to be laid out of Emanuel, Bulloch and Tattnall, with Metter, Ga., as the county seat, to be attached to the first congressional district, Middle circuit and seventeenth senatorial district.

Evans county, to be laid out from portions of Bulloch and Tattnall, with Claxton, Ga., the county seat, to be attached to the first congressional district, Atlantic circuit and second senatorial district.

By reason of the fact that the constitution only gives authority for the maintenance of 148 counties and by reason of the further fact that the amendments approved by the legislature will increase the number of counties, an amendment is necessary to give authority to increase the counties to 152 and this measure will also be voted on.

MANY ODD FELLOWS GATHER HERE FRIDAY

The most notable assembly of Odd Fellows held in Georgia in recent years will convene at the Auditorium Friday night. Several thousand members of the order are expected to be present to participate in the meeting and to greet Grand Master W. B. Sloan, Grand Sire Robert T. Daniel, of Griffin, and Grand Marshal John A. Hynds.

A feature of the entertainment will be the parade, which will gather at Alabama and Broad streets Friday evening at 7 o'clock. From this point the line of march will extend up Broad to Mitchell, to Whitehall, to Peachtree, to Forsyth, to Marietta, to Edgewood, to Gilmer and to the Auditorium. The meeting will immediately follow.

Governor Slaton and Mayor Woodward will deliver addresses of welcome on behalf of the state and city. Grand Sire Daniel, Grand Master Sloan and Sovereign Grand Marshal Hynds will also speak. W. S. Coleman, past grand master of the state lodge of Georgia, will be master of ceremonies.

AVERA IS BOUND OVER AS CHEAT AND SWINDLER

W. Avera, of 309 Windsor street, charged with having stolen the automobile of Cliff Ballard, colored, was bound over by the recorder Tuesday as a common cheat and swindler. His bond was fixed at $2,000. Will Thomas, colored, who was arrested as being an accomplice of Avera's, stated that he had been under the impression that his employer was connected with the "Black Patti" show and was the owner of three machine. He said that keys had been furnished him by Avera to unlock several automobiles which were standing on the streets. The case against Thomas was dismissed.

DAVIS WILL WAGE WAR ON LAKE DYNAMITERS

State Game Commissioner Charles L. Davis announced his determination of waging war against the dynamiters of lakes, streams and ponds in various sections of the state for fish. This is one of the most serious violations of the state's game laws, and the commissioner is going to stop it, if possible.

All violators are going to be punished as fast as they can be ascertained. Mr. Davis received information from J. H. Allison, game warden of White county, to the effect that James Nicely, a negro, had been fined $50 and costs by the county judge for dynamiting a stream for fish

INJURED WHILE TRYING TO SAVE SON IN WELL

Augusta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) E. J. Grimaud was seriously injured Saturday afternoon by falling into a well. The well had been sunk about 50 feet and piping was being placed to take off the surplus water. Mr. Grimaud's son, on a rope swing, was about 35 feet down connecting the piping, when he fell into the water. The father attempted to reach the son by going down the rope, but it broke and precipitated him to the bottom. As he fell he struck the curbing of the well, breaking his spinal column. The son was not injured.

WATERWAYS CONVENTION AT COLUMBUS POSTPONED

Columbus, Ga., October 27.—The annual convention of the Mississippi-to-Atlantic Inland Waterways association, scheduled to be held in Columbus November 18-19, has been postponed until early in 1915, according to an announcement made here today by Secretary Leland J. Henderson.

This association numbers some 6,000 active members from every southern state east of the Mississippi river. United States Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, is president and the association has a representative from each of the states. The association is affiliated with the National Rivers and Harbors congress.

Charities' Doors Closed In the Face of Thousands

Tuesday was a day of winter, and had its sufferers as winter days do—for that great machine called the city has not yet been made so perfect that there can be cheese in every pantry of the outer town. And the fact that old Mother Hubbard went to the cupboard and found no bone for her dog, or even for her children, is tragically ceasing to present any longer its old qualities of peculiar romance.

For on Tuesday morning that nursery legend was given a touch of realism, when all the doors of the city were closed against the cold, and a certain three of these doors closed in the face of a multitude clamoring in need—a throng of orphans and widows, men very old and girls too young to be without help in the great city, and women who should have been under a doctor's care rather than in Tuesday's blizzard—over three thousand in all.

These are not the people who can afford to read their newspapers over a morning's toast and eggs; many of them do not even know that the closing of the Associated Charities on Tuesday was not for a holiday, and that the three doors will not open this morning. The elevator in the Gould building will carry a double load today of creatures who have met with "man's extremity" and are crawling back from the brink of earth's despair to the only threshold that promises to extend the rescuing hand of Him who said, "Even unto the least of these."

Over $30,000 must be raised to continue the work of the Associated Charities in Atlanta. Outside of a meeting of the members of the association on Monday, which preceeded the closing of its doors, little has been said and practically nothing done that would insure its remaining in existence. A committee was appointed at Monday's meeting to decide if anything can be done at all. The committee will meet informally this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce. They are Thomas Eggleston, chairman; Morris Rich, Armand Maier, J. M. B. Hoxsey, Lon J. Daniel and W. Woods White.

The situation stands almost the same as before Monday's meeting, despite its enthusiasm. All Atlanta—especially 3,000 of her helpless unfortunate—eagerly await the decision of today's committee, and it well might be said, they are the "Committee of Today."

"Call to Arms" to Be Given For Benefit of Belgians

"Absolute neutrality, mind! No countries mentioned, no names that might indicate we're taking sides You'll have to rewrite the whole play."

That was the way "The Call to Arms" was done "all over again" before the rehearsal Tuesday night for the Belgian relief fund theatricals to be given Thursday night at the Grand. The play, an unusually clever one-act sketch, is full of war's alarms and the roll of the drum, but there's never a word to indicate whether the setting is English, German or French. It has been efficiently "deleted."

The rehearsal went off in great shape Tuesday night, with some of the leading members of the Players' club in the principal roles. In the cast are Mrs. W. C. Jarnagin, Mrs. W. P. Nicolson, F. M. Mikell, Miss Callie Hoke Smith, Mrs. Ransom Wright, Mr. Thornton Marye, Hamilton Douglas, Jr., W. F. Clarke and Milt Saul.

But "The Call to Arms" is but one of a long list of bright offerings to be combined in the bill for the Belgian relief entertainment. Some of the society folk whose names figure in all the dancing parties will exhibit the very newest steps, and there will be songs, bits of vaudeville and brief sketches by the best amateurs in Atlanta, besides a professional act or two furnished by the Forsyth theater. It promises to be the best amateur production ever given by Atlanta folk.

In the wake of the war news have come so many descriptions of the terrible suffering of the poor of warridden Belgium that the heart of America has been touched as it was never touched before, and nowhere is there more genuine sympathy than in Atlanta. This sympathy is taking practical shape, too, in the excellent advance sale for the benefit, but the Grand is a big house, and Henry DeGive, consul of Belgium, and one of the principal workers for the relief fund, hopes that the "standing room only" sign will be hung up early in the evening. Jake Wells has given the use of the theater and the entire receipts will go to help the suffering Belgians.

TIME LIMIT IS ASKED FOR WAITING AUTOS

Retail Merchants Complain That They Interfere With Business.

Members of the Retail Merchants' association appeared before the ordinance committee of council Tuesday afternoon in the interest of an ordinance fixing a time limit on standing automobiles and vehicles between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Members of the delegation urged that the time be made as short as possible, explaining that most of the congestion in the retail shopping district is caused by automobiles being allowed to stand as long as the owners desired on any street within the fire limits.

The committee will report an ordinance making the time limit 30 minutes.

The ordinance will prevent automobiles parking on the streets in the retail district by requiring the chauffers to run their cars parallel with the sidewalk, instead of heading in as is done on Marietta street and other thoroughfares.

The committee was informed that, under the present ordinances, a wagon from which merchandise is peddled can stand on Peachtree or Whitehall street as long as the driver wanted, and it was shown that frequently autos are parked in front of stores in Whitehall street all day long.

Some members of the delegation wanted the committee to include in the ordinance a provision to prohibit heavy loaded wagons from traversing Peachtree and Whitehall, but they were informed that the ordinance would be an infringement on personal rights of taxpayers and would not be constitutional.

The ordinance applies to vehicles on Peachtree and Whitehall from Ellis to Trinity avenue. Broad street from Peachtree to Alabama, and the congested blocks on Forsyth and Marietta.

6TH DISTRICT FAIR OPENS.

Hardwick Speaks and Carnival Queen Is Crowned.

Barnesville, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Before an immense crowd the Sixth District fair was formally opened today at 10 o'clock, following one of the largest and most attractive parades of floats probably ever seen outside the large cities, this feature winning the praise of everybody present. It was magnificent and was a surprise even to those who worked it up.

In front of the Agricultural school the official ceremonies took place. The queen, Miss Pearl Stephens, of Forsyth, was crowned by L. A. Collier, president of the fair association, and the key to the city turned over to the king, Hon. Hugh Thurston, of Thomaston, by Mayor B. M. Turner.

Dr. A. J. Moncrief, master of ceremonies, introduced Hon. Thomas W. Hardwick, who made a forceful address, briefly giving the reasons for the present temporary depression and earnestly advising a reduction in the production of the next cotton crop of at least 50 per cent. He paid a glowing tribute to middle Georgia and predicted that prosperity would abound to every farmer who would operate so that cotton would be a surplus crop.

The exhibits in all departments meet the expectations of everybody and will doubtless draw big crowds throughout the week. Friday will be canning club and corn club day, with an interesting program, the fair closing Saturday with colored people's day.

FARM COLLEGE TO HAVE BIG EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—With the opening date of the Georgia state fair only a few days off, the fair grounds are now the scene of activity that always precedes the opening, though probably a little more so than ever before, for there never has been a fair held yet where as much work toward getting ready for it has been accomplished so far ahead of time. Hundreds of exhibits have already arrived, chief among them being the big exhibit of the state college of agriculture, which is now being installed by representatives of the college.

The state college exhibit is to entirely fill the old music hall this year and will be one of the most unique that the college has ever gotten up. Cover crops which the farmers are now being urged to plant, have been planted in miniature fields and these will have grown to a good height by the time the fair opens. The exhibit will also include the exhibits of the boys' corn clubs and the girls' canning clubs, together with many models of improved farm implements.

Several fine herds of cattle have already arrived and some of the agricultural displays have come in and are now being put in place.

The headquarters of the fair association will be moved to the grounds tomorrow and all business will be transacted there until after the fair is ended.

The association has erected a new brick office building on the grounds, just inside the street car entrance.

A number of new buildings have been erected this year, including a new brick veneered entrance, a new agricultural building and several additional cattle barns.

McClure to Open Store.

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The Citizens National bank has abandoned its plans for the erection of a twelve-story bank and office building at Third and Cherry streets, for a few years at least, and has leased the building now on the property to C. W. McClure, of Atlanta, who sometime after the first of the year, will open a modern 5 and 10 cent store there.

Mr. McClure is in the city today closing up the arrangements and announces that he has secured a lease on the property for a five-year period, with an option to either purchase it outright or renew his lease at the expiration of that time. Mr. McClure already has a store here, but it is much smaller than the one he plans to open.

The disappointment over the decision of the Citizens' bank to build the fine new office building, is keen. It is said that it was impossible to make the proper financial arrangements right at this time.

Higher Salary for Judge.

Macon, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Bibb county is interested in only one of the constitutional amendments to be submitted to the voters of the state at the general election on November 3, that being the one giving the people of this county the right to pay the judge of the superior court $2,000 more per year, making his salary $5,000.

The impression prevails in some parts of the state that if this amendment carries it means that the people of the state as a whole will be taxed to pay the increased salary, but this is not the case. The entire expense will be borne by the people of Bibb county, not even the people of Houston and Crawford, which, with Bibb, from the Macon circuit, being called on to assist. As most of the work of the superior court in this circuit is done in Bibb county, the people of this county think their judge should have larger muneration for his services. In Savannah, Atlanta and other cities of the state the superior court judges receive $5,000 a year.

A. M. E. CHURCH OPENS ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Dalton, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The North Georgia annual conference of the African Methodist Episcopal church, with 175 ministers and delegates, will convene in the First church here tomorrow, Rev. J. T. Wilkinson pastor. Bishop J. S. Flipper, of the diocese, will preside. Bishop Henry M. Turner, chairman of the house of bishops of the denomination, will be present and take part in the services.

Presiding Elders D. H. Porter, of the Marietta district; U. P. Tolbert, of the Rome district; W. B. Lawrence, of the Athens district; A. J. Wilkinson, of the Washington district, and S. F. James, of the Dalton district, will have their pastors make reports of missions established, members added in their charges and debts paid on churches.

Many leading men among the race from over the country will be present and will speak and preach. Some of them are: Editor J. Frank McDonald, of Kansas City, Mo.; Dr. G. W. Allen, of The Southern Recorder; Revs. P. G. Simmons, J. A. Hadley, C. M. Tanner, President W. A. Fountain, R. V. Branch, Emily Kinch of Philadelphia; Editor R. R. Wright and R. C. Ransom, of The A. M. E. Review.

ED MONTFORD INDICTED.

He Will Be Tried Monday for Beacham Murder.

Dublin, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Ed Montford, white, and John Gardner, colored, were indicted today by the Laurens grand jury jointly for the murder of Herschel Beacham several weeks ago. The case has been set for next Monday, the first day of criminal court here.

Gardner confessed to the police that Montford carried him and Beacham to the river in a car at night to attend a beer drinking; that there Montford shot Beacham in the head, and with Gardner's assistance threw the body in the river after weighting it. The body floated to the surface and was found. Montford was then arrested, and later wrote a note to Gardner from jail concerning the hiding place of a ring taken from Beacham. The police found out about the note and arrested Gardner, who broke down finally and confessed. Most of the statements in his story have been corroborated by later investigation.

Montford has been in Bibb county jail since the negro's confession to prevent a mob outbreak.

GEORGIA-CAROLINA FAIR IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Augusta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) The Georgia-Carolina Fair association is "in bad" financially and has been placed in the hands of a temporary receiver by Judge Hammond, of the superior court, on petition of several of the officials. The action was taken to tide the organization over a tight place until some moneys which will soon be due can be received. The late fair was not a success financially—was not expected to be, in fact—although the attendance was better than might have been expected under all the circumstances. It is expected that the difficulty will be satisfactorily adjusted in a short while.

It is Just Natural To Admire Babies

Our altruistic nature impels love for the cooing infant. And at the same time the subject of motherhood is ever before us. To know what to do that will add to the physical comfort of expectant motherhood is a subject that has interested most women of all times. One of the real helpful things is an external abdominal application sold in most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." We have known so many grandmothers, who in their younger days relied upon this remedy, and who recommend it to their own daughters that it certainly must be what its name indicates. They have used it for its direct influence upon the muscles, cords, ligaments and tendons as it aims to afford relief from the strain and pain so often unnecessarily severe during the period of expectancy.

A little book mailed by Bradfield Regulator Co., 305 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., refers to many things that women like to read about. It refers not only to the relief from muscle strain due to their expansion but also to nausea, morning sickness, caking of breasts and many other distresses.

Less Than a Cent

You may know a woman who has a reputation for making delicious cake, biscuits, etc.,—who seems to hit it right every time.

You may also know a woman, who, no matter how painstaking, can't seem to get the knack of successful baking.

Both use the same butter, same eggs, same flour and sugar. What is the difference?

Very likely it's all in the baking powder. Undoubtedly the woman with the knack uses Royal Baking Powder, and the unsuccessful woman uses an alum baking powder thinking it cheaper.

Yet the difference in the cost of a whole large cake is less than a cent.

STRONG LINE-UP FOR JACKETS

SPORTS—CONDUCTED BY DICK JEMISON.

STRONG LINE-UP FOR THE JACKETS

Will Send Most Formidable Line-Up of the Season Against the Sewanee Tigers Saturday.

By Hal Reynolds.

The Jackets had another hard afternoon of practice yesterday in preparation for the Sewanee contest Saturday at Grant field.

The varsity was put through a long signal drill, which was followed by some fierce scrimmaging with the scrubs.

The coaches are driving the team as fast as possible, in view of the fact that Sewanee has a fast eleven and one that will take all that Tech has to beat them.

Although the secrecy of Tech's practice has made dope scarce, it is almost certain that the Jackets are now working out some of their trick plays, which have caused opponents no little trouble in the past.

Up to the present time, Tech has not used a single thing but straight football. Since the Sewanee struggle is one of the big games of the year, Coach Heisman is sure to spring some new stuff if he finds that he can't get away without it.

The injured men are still taking it easy. "Froggie" Morrison's bad leg has almost healed, and he will probably be used in scrimmage before the week end.

Hugh Mauck is another who has been laid up for quite a while. He will probably be all right by the time of Saturday's game. Ely McCord is still out, with the chances against his getting in the game at all.

Sneed and Crutcher were rather badly bunged up in yesterday's scrimmage, but will come around soon.

The Jackets should face the Tigers with the most formidable line-up that they have used this year.

FREDDIE WELSH WINS OVER MATTY BALDWIN

Boston, October 27.—Freddy Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, won a decision tonight over Matty Baldwin, of Charlestown, in a 12-round bout. Welsh had the better of every round to the tenth. That round and the remaining two were Baldwin's.

Ens Canned.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 27.—(Special.)—Announcement was made yesterday of the sale of Utility Man Jewel Ens to the Dallas club, of the Texas league. Ens played shortstop for the locals for the greater part of last season and did some good work, although his strangeness in the position made it a weak spot all year after Balenti's injury. Ens originally went to the majors from Texas league and is but going back to his old haunts.

Gowdy Grabbed the Coin By Selling His Signature

New York, October 27.—While the world's series is over and playing any part of it at this somewhat remote date shows bad taste, people sure are still interested in Hank Gowdy and how the fates have smiled on him since the curtain dropped on the sensational series.

First of all Gowdy received a bonus of $1,500 for the season's play instead of the $1,000 originally promised him.

Furthermore he has received a three-year contract that calls for a large salary.

"How did his home run and his two doubles affect his immediate earning capacity? Well, it meant $1,250 for him the very first night after the game. He was eating his dinner at the Adams hotel, in Boston, with his parents when a manufacturer of a certain sort of salve approached him between "pork chops" and asked whether he could have his signature for his salve for $50. "Sure," said Hank. 'Show me the money." The $50 was promptly handed over and Hank signed.

Bob Hillerich, of the Hillerich hat factory, of Louisville, asked if he would take $500 for his signature for use on a Gowdy model hat. Hank gobbled that money. Still later the same evening he opened a telegram from Hammerstein's offering Rudolph and himself $1,000 for a week at the New York show house. That contract is being filled this week and may be prolonged indefinitely.

One of the little incidents of the post series days that will appeal to admirers of Gowdy is the promise he made his parents to buy them a nice home for their use as long as they lived. It will not be long now until some Columbus property will be secured by Gowdy for this purpose. It will mean a lot to the "old folks" and besides shows a manly vein in the big boy that just goes to further prove the stuff that is in him.

Sewanee Will Not Permit Preas to Play Saturday

"Harris G. Cope, Sewanee, Tenn.: Coach Gorton, of V. M. I., believed Tech had been outrageously treated in Preas case and permitted him to play Saturday. Rumored here Sewanee is going to take same position. Wire me your opinion and Sewanee's position. Why should executive committee reinstate Sikes and bar Preas? Cases identical.

"DICK JEMISON,
"Sporting Editor, Constitution."

In reply, the following was received:

"Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor, Constitution: Sewanee abides by the ruling of the executive committee. We know nothing of the inside facts of the Sikes or Preas cases, therefore, having nothing to say.

"HARRIS COPE."

Several local alumni of the Tigers have taken up the matter with the authorities at their alma mater, suggesting that it would be a very sportsmanlike thing for Sewanee to permit Preas to play.

It is believed that these letters may bring some results before the end of the week.

WILLIAMS BEATS BRANDT; GIBBONS BEATS MAXWELL

New York, October 27.—"Kid" Williams, of Baltimore, bantamweight titleholder, outfought "Dutch" Brandt, of Brooklyn, in a ten-round contest in Brooklyn tonight.

Mike Gibbons, of St. Paul, defeated Billy Maxwell, of Philadelphia, scoring knockdowns in three rounds. It went the limit of ten rounds.

Sutton Defeats Schaefer.

Richmond, Va., October 27.—George Sutton defeated Jacob Schaefer, 400 to 255, in a Billiard Players' league 14.1 balk line match here tonight. Average and high runs:

Sutton, 13 1-3, 55; Schaefer, 8½, 71.

COMMODORES IMPROVE.

Vanderbilt Expects to Give Virginia Hot Battle.

By Paul Treanor.

Nashville, Tenn., October 27.—(Special.)—The wonderful improvement in the Commodore defense and power of attack as displayed against North Carolina has aroused hopes among Commodore supporters of holding Virginia to a close score, if not actually gaining a victory over the Charlottesville eleven.

While the chances for a victory over Virginia are more or less speculative, it must be conceded that Vanderbilt's development during the week prior to the North Carolina game surprised their most ardent supporters. In creating a defense for the famous Princeton shift, McGugin lived up to his reputation of wizardry, the shifting of the Commodore forwards to correspond with every shift of the Tar Teel line completely upsetting the play.

Time after time the Commodores would get through and throw the runner for a loss before the play could get into action.

With no intention of detracting from the North Carolina victory, it must be confessed that the touchdown made by Tackle Ramsey was rather of the fluky variety. Chester was a marked man for the Tar Heel forwards when the punting duty developed upon him after Captain Sikes retired from the game with an injury to his leg.

When Vanderbilt played Central, the Tar Heel coaches, who sat in the stands, found, by stop watches, that Chester consumed from three and a half to four seconds to get off his kicks after receivnng the ball from the center. Mindful of this long delay, the Tar Heel forwards took advantage of their chances and profited to the extent of a touchdown.

The kick which Ramsey blocked nine times out of ten would have rolled to one side, but in this instance, with Chester standing on the fifteenth yard line, it bounded straight across the goal line and, though the Commodore punter made a desperate attempt to recover the ball, Ramsey beat him to the oval by a fraction.

But not even the most rabid of Vanderbilt supporters could be oblivious to the faulty generalship and the frequent fumbling, and it is in these two departments that McGugin must perfect his machine before he can hope to stem the Virginia tide. Curfey's indecision and poor selection of plays on the six-yard line, to which Carman had battered his way through the Tar Heel center, cost the Commodores a touchdown and victory.

The backfield still is in need of polishing, for several times there was confusion among the backs which prevented gains through glaring holes. If Captain Sikes can recover from a severe injury to his leg, and Currey continues his sensational broken field sprinting, Vanderbilt can offer a match for the wonderful Gooch and Mayer, who are liable to give the Commodores much trouble.

Richmond Academy Meets Savannah High School Eleven Next Saturday

Augusta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) Richmond Academy meets the Savannah High eleven on the local gridiron Saturday. The game will be watched with interest by Atlanta prep fans as Savannah High plays Tech High on the morning of the Georgia-Tech game.

The local aggregation goes to Sparta Wednesday for a practice game with the Tenth District Aggies. Unless the Aggies spring a big surprise, the Academy team should win by a safe score. The game Saturday will be one of the hardest fought of the year—both aggregations are light but fast, and each has had football knowledge pretty thoroughly instilled into them. Savannah High is coached by Hutton, former Tech end, and the locals by Wilson, of Washington and Lee, and Learned, of Wisconsin.

The Academy coaches are well pleased over the showing in the Riverside game. Playing under a 30-pound to the man handicap, the locals held their opponents to a 47-13 score. Riverside has an exceptionally strong team this year—the bunch that beats them out for the prep championship will have to do some strong going.

Statesboro "Telltale" Writes of Constitution's Athletic Pin Contests

220-yard dash in 28 seconds.
Chinning the pole 9 times.
Running high jump, 4 feet 4 inches.
This looks easy. How about it?

It is possible for nearly every boy in the high school to win one of the pins offered by The Atlanta Constitution. We will have our contest the first Friday in December. Let every boy practice between now and that time.

The rules require that only those boys shall be admitted to the contest who are in good standing for the month previous, in effort, proficiency and deportment, and who are making satisfactory effort to secure good posture.

It is to Statesboro's interest to get as many of these prizes as possible. Work hard, and let us send in a big list. Let's win.

Starr-Elwert Trade Blocked by Lookouts; Charlie to Be Captain

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 27.—(Special.)—Formal offer of Third Baseman Bill Elwert for Second-sacker Charlie Starr in order that the latter might become manager of the Montgomery Billikens, has been refused by President Andrews, of the Chattanooga club.

It is understood that the deal will be reopened at the Birmingham meeting of the Southern league, but there seems to be no great likelihood of the Chattanooga and Montgomery clubs reaching an agreement as to a trade. President Andrews states that he is unwilling to stand in the way of a player's advancement, but that he gave a valuable man for Starr and should not be expected to let him go for a player he could not use.

Fred Graff is a more valuable third baseman, in the opinion of the local magnate, than is Elwert. Besides, Starr is needed for second base duty and there would be no one left to fill his shoes, unless a second baseman be found among the Chattanooga drafts, whose names are being religiously kept secret by President Andrews.

The local magnate states that he made a counter proposition to Montgomery that he would trade Starr for certain players that President Wilcox could purchase, but that this offer was turned down.

Fair Fan Compliments The Constitution on Its Stand in Preas Case

A fair fan of Atlanta, who is a staunch Tech supporter and an admirer of Jim Preas, commends The Constitution for its stand in the Preas case.

"Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: I read with quite a bit of interest your article in this morning's paper in regard to Jim Preas, of Tech. I am, as you know, an ardent admirer of Tech, and, even were I not so inclined, I would certainly be glad to indorse your sentiments in reference to the action of the S. I. A. A.

"I want to express to you my very sincere thanks for so valiantly defending Tech and to disclaim all unfair action in reference to the very man in question—Preas, of Tech. He is no more guilty, intentionally, than Sikes; and even I think Sikes should have been reinstated under the circumstances—and I think Preas should have been—just as promptly and certainly with as much justice.

"Thanking you again for your fine article in defense of my 'pet,' I am

"A FAIR FAN."

WILLIAMS ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF GAY

Ocilla, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—The case of the state against Press Williams, charged with the murder of Robert Gay and Jesse Sumner in this county on May 10, was completed in Irwin superior court this afternoon, resulting in a verdict of not guilty.

This case was the first called when court opened yesterday morning. Quite a number of witnesses were introduced by the state and defense during the afternoon. Upon convening of the court this morning the state introduced two witnesses. H. J. Quincey began the opening argument to the jury for the state, followed by Colonel S. Z. Bass, of Ashburn, and J. R. Cooper, of Macon, for the defense. The state's argument was closed by Solicitor J. R. Wall, of Fitzgerald, after which Judge Walter F. George charged the jury and adjourned for dinner. The jury was out about one and a half hours.

The defendant was tried for the murder of Robert Gay and it has not yet been determined what course will be pursued with reference to the charge of the murder of Jesse Sumner.

Recovers Stolen Horse.

Fitzgerald, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—County Treasurer F. M. Smith arrived home last evening with the horse and buggy taken from his stable Sunday morning a week ago. The team was found in Valdosta with Bud Shireling, who was taken into custody by the deputy sheriff of Lowndes county and placed in jail. Shireling will be brought to this city for trial.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED BEN HILL CORN BOYS

Fitzgerald, Ga., October 27.—(Special.)—Thirty-five corn club boys, as against eight last year, were awarded prizes on their crops. Ludie Minshew won first prize with a yield of 92.3 bushels to the acre, the prize a short course in agricultural school at Athens, being based on the net profits of $59.60. Jake Brewer won second prize, a trip to the corn show at Atlanta, and the yield per acre, 87.17. Matthew Fussell won third prize, also a trip to the corn show at Atlanta, and a yield of 96.3 bushels to the acre.

Negro Fair at Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., October 27.—(Special.) The negro fair opened its gates this morning for four days. Many of the exhibits from the fair of last week will be left for the colored people to inspect. There will be racing, prize drills and football and a midway, and the colored population will no doubt spend both time and money at the fair grounds this week.

Men throughout the nation smoke Prince Albert jammed in a jimmy pipe or rolled in a cigarette. Sort of natural, at that, because you nor any other man ever did hit the trail of a tobacco like

61 MINERS ARE KILLED BY A GAS EXPLOSION

Fire Follows Explosion, and Deadly Fumes Stop the Rescuers.

Royalton, Ill., October 27.—A total of sixty-one dead is shown on the casualty list issued late tonight by officials of the Franklin Coal and Coke company, at whose mine, near here, three hundred men were entombed at the going to work hour this morning.

The mine belongs to the Franklin Coal and Coke company. The fire followed a gas explosion. Deadly fumes prevented rescuers from reaching the men entrapped on the lower level.

Of the men taken from the mine more than eighty had been overcome by the gas. Two died at the surface.

A mine rescue car from Benton, Ill., arrived nearly four hours after the explosion with a supply of oxygen helmets. The work of rescue then was pushed with vigor, but only dead bodies were found.

Experts said tonight it would be impossible to subdue the fire raging in the lower level until the burning sections were sealed.

COL. ROOSEVELT DENIES THAT HE'S A DEMAGOGUE

Altoona, Pa., October 27.—Colonel Roosevelt, speaking here tonight in the interest of the Washington (progressive) party ticket, declared republican and democratic leaders were slow to recognize changing conditions.

"I know, for I've worked with them," he said. "During the thirty years of my public life I have time and time again said to them, 'If you don't do something for the people you'l, catch it.' The most I could get out of them was an occasional 'I guess you're right.'"

Colonel Roosevelt spoke of "certain men who like to talk about demagogues.

"If they feel severe toward me," he declared, "they call me a demagogue. I am not a demagogue, nor are those working with me demagogues. We are, on the contrary, trying to prevent the growth of a wild and vicious discontent in society.

"I have come into Pennsylvania to ask you men to be true to the work started two years ago. We then started to throw out Penrose. We must finish the work and smash the whole Penrose machine."

PROBLEM OF EXCHANGE WILL SOON BE SOLVED

Washington, October 27.—Developments in the natural course of trade are doing much, in the opinion of treasury officials, to solve the intricate problems of international exchange. Conferences with Sir George Paish and American bankers will be resumed Friday by the federal reserve board, but there was apparent in official circles tonight a feeling of confidence that many of the most vexing features of the situation soon would eliminate themselves.

The fact that the rate for foreign exchange in New York had dropped to within a few cents of normal, and the inclination of individual debtors in this country to take care of their own obligations in the usual channels of exchange were pointed out as encouraging signs. Great Britain's agreement that cotton shall not be regarded as contraband and shall be on the free list is expected to help in finding a bottom for cotton. The twelve reserve banks will be open within three weeks, and with the vast reserves to be released with their entrance into the field, general conditions are expected to show decided improvement.

Confident that normal conditions are about to come to the surface, Secretary McAdoo expressed regret tonight again that congress failed to pass the bill for government purchase of commercial ships. An effort probably will be made by the administration to put the measure through next winter. Mr. McAdoo said that if such ships were available now, a great opportunity could be seized to transport cotton to many nations that want it.

ROCKEFELLER AND SON ARE DEFENDED IN SUIT

Philadelphia, October 27.—John D. Rockefeller and his son, named among defendants in the government's dissolution suit against the United States Steel Corporation, were defended by counsel in court here today on the charge that they were co-conspirators in the formation and management of the big steel concern. George Welwood Murray, who argued their case, suggested that the government appended the name Rockefeller to the list of defendants merely to "add drapery and scenery to the suit."

Counsel for the ore interests, commonly known as the Hill interests, which leased ore deposits in the Lake Superior region in the steel corporation, also appeared to declare his clients innocent of monopolistic intention.

It was the sixth day of argument in the case. David A. Reed, speaking for the steel corporation, maintained that it could no' control the steel trade as to prices or competition, even if it so desired. Cordenio A. Severance, another attorney, declared the concern was always fair to competitors.

In defending the Rockefellers, Mr. Murray said his clients had no hand in organization of the corporation, being merely sellers of property to the concern. They were only nominal directors, he said, never taking an active part in the property and resigning from the board long before the government suit was brought.

PLAN ANNOUNCED FOR COTTON LOAN

tees to include the name of the state in which such committee shall be required to act for the cotton loan committee, and each state commitee so appointed shall in turn appoint local committees in sufficient number to safeguard the practical workings of the plan. All committees appointed to be subject to the approval of the central committee and all committees to serve without compensation of any kind.

"The banks of the city of New York have pledged themselves to subscribe to fifty million dollars of the one hundred million dollars of class A certificates, provided the remaining fifty million dollars shall be raised within a reasonable time under the supervision of the central committee by banks in non-cotton producing states.

Applications for Loans.

"All loans made from the fund created shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum and all applications for loans must be made through banks or bankers who shall in each instance accompany the application for such loans with a subscription to class B certificates in an amount equal to 25 per cent of the amount of the loan applied for. The subscriber to class B certificates applying for a loan for a customer will not be required to endorse the note of such customer and shall not be entitled or permitted to receive from such customer the payment of any commission on account of obtaining such loan.

"All loans made shall be first approved by the proper local committee, by the appropriate state committee and by two members of the cotton loan committee. When applications for such loans have been approved as above provided the notes evidencing same, together with the collateral required under the terms of this plan, must be forwarded to the office of the cotton loan committee with instructions as to the disposition of the proceeds and must, as stated, be accompanied with the subscription of the bank or banker forwarding the application to an amount of class B certificates equal to 25 per cent of the amount applied for.

"In order to make the subscriptions to class B certificates immediately available, each subscription accompanied by an application for a loan must be accompanied by a New York draft of the bank or bankers through which the application is made, drawn to the order of the cotton loan fund, or in such manner as the cotton loan committee shall designate, said draft to be for an amount equal to 25 per cent of the loan applied for, and upon the granting of such loan a class B certificate for this amount shall be issued.

"In this manner 75 per cent of each loan will be provided by the fund obtained from class A subscribers and 25 per cent from the class B subscribers.

Committee to Approve Notes.

"All loans shall be evidenced by notes in form approved by the cotton loan committee and shall be secured by cotton on the basis of 6 cents per pound for middling in addition to the guarantee fund hereinafter described.

"As evidence of the security offered, each note tendered with an application for a loan must be accompanied by receipts of approved warehouses and by evidence of proper insurance. All cotton accepted as security must be located in warehouses or other buildings under the ownership and control of some person, firm or corporation other than the borrower, and in approving such loans the local and state committees shall respectively pass upon the sufficiency of such warehouse receipts and insurance and shall be satisfied that such cotton is free from all liens except that created by the loan or loans from the fund to the borrower for which such cotton is pledged as part security for such loans, and the committee approving such loans shall likewise be satisfied that the cotton offered as security is of the grade or quality specified in the application.

"All expenses, such as warehouse charges and insurance premiums, shall be borne by the borrower.

"In addition to the security hereinbefore specified, every applicant granted a loan from the fund shall pay to the cotton loan committee a sum equal to 3 per cent of the face amount of the loan granted and the applicant shall authorize the cotton loan committee to deduct or withhold this amount from the proceeds of such loan. All sums so paid together with all interest earned from the investment thereof shall constitute a mutual borrower's guarantee fund to be used (1) for the payment of expenses of administration, which it is estimated will in no event exceed ⅛ of 1 per cent of the loan fund created; (2) to make up any deficiency in the amount available for payment of the class A and class B certificates with interest resulting from losses sustained by reason of any loans made from the said loan fund or otherwise; the balance, including all interest earned thereon, shall be returned pro rata to the borrowers.

The Guarantee Fund.

"The cotton loan committee shall control the guarantee fund so created and may, in its discretion, invest all or any portion thereof in class A certificates herein provided for.

"All applications for loans shall be made not later than February 1, 1915, and all loans shall mature on or before February 1, 1916; provided, however, that the central committee, in its discretion, may authorize the cotton loan committee to extend any or all loans for a period not to exceed six months after February 1, 1916, if, in the judgment of said central committee, conditions at that time justify such extension.

"Calls for payment of subscriptions to class A certificates shall be made as nearly pro rata as possible. In the event that on February 1, 1915, applications for loans shall not have been received to the extent of the full amount subscribed, the fund shall nevertheless be closed at the amount then applied for and loaned, and class A subscribers shall thereupon be released from the payment of the balance of their subscriptions which have not up to that time been called for. Provided always, that the fund shall not be construed to have been established for any purpose until class A subscriptions shall have been received to the extent of $100,000,000.

Use of Available Moneys.

"As moneys become available for repayment to the subscriber, they will be applied against both class A and class B certificates, but the percentage of reduction in the case of class B certificates shall be one-half of that in the case of class A certificates until the amount of the latter outstanding shall be reduced to the amount of class B certificates then outstanding, after which the percentage of reduction shall be the same. For example, if a payment is made on the class A certificates to the extent of 10 per cent of the face amount of such certificates then outstanding, a payment shall at the same time be made upon the class B certificates to the extent of 5 per cent of the amount then outstanding. Again, if a payment on the class A certificates is made on an amount equivalent to 3 1-2 per cent of the amount then outstanding, at the same time a payment on account of class B certificates will be made of an amount representing 1 3-4 per cent of the aggregate of class B certificates then outstanding, which method of payment shall be continued until the amount of the two classes of certificates outstanding shall be the same, after which all sums distributed shall be divided pro rata among all certificate holders, regardless of the two classes."

ARKANSAS BANKERS RALLYING TO COTTON.

Little Rock, Ark., October 27.—A pledge of 2 per cent of the capital stock of all banks in Arkansas to the cotton pool fund was made today by the members of the Arkansas Bankers' association in special session here.

One hundred and fifty bankers attended the meeting. The pledge will mean the raising of $2,000,000 of the $3,000,000 fund expected of the state for the $135,000,000 pool. The association also indorsed the move for a standard and uniform warehouse receipt.

One million dollars already has been pledged by jobbers and wholesalers of the state.

PLANS TO PROTECT COTTON BUSINESS.

Dallas, Texas, October 27.—Plans to protect the cotton business when the federal reserve banks open November 16 were up for discussion here today by a committee representing the Texas Bankers' association. Cotton men have told the bankers that they fear farmers will be too eager to dispose of their cotton when the reserve banks open, without giving the steadying influences expected from release of the system's reserve funds time to operate. The committee also will consider the general cotton situation in Texas, where marketing of the crop has been comparatively heavy for several weeks. J. A. Kemp, of Wichita Falls, is president of the committee. He has taken the position that the first aid to the cotton crop should come from the south itself.

BANKERS OF TEXAS TO LOAN ON COTTON.

Dallas, Texas, October 27.—Twenty-five Texas bankers at a conference here today pledged themselves to aid the farmers of the state to hold their cotton for at least 8 cents a pound. The loan plan, proposed at a recent conference of bankers in St. Louis, was indorsed and resolutions adopted demanding that planters reduce their cotton 50 per cent next year.

Cotton men have told the bankers that they fear farmers will be too eager to dispose of their cotton when the reserve banks open without giving the steadying influences expected from release of the system's reserve funds time to operate.

BOND ISSUE TO AID FARMERS.

Columbia, S. C., October 27.—The South Carolina house of representatives tonight passed to third reading the bill from a special committee providing for submitting to the people in the election on November 3, the question of issuing $24,000,000 in 5 per cent state bonds to be loaned on notes secured by cotton warehouse receipts on the basis of 9 cents a pound. The senate has already passed the bill in somewhat different form. The measure was passed to third reading in the house by a vote of 58 to 41.

The house today sent to the senate for concurrence the bill for a state warehouse system. The house adopted several amendments to the measure.

GRAIN AND MEATS IN GREAT DEMAND

But Marked Decrease in Exports of Cotton, Machinery and Material for Manufacturing.

Washington, October 27.—War's continued effect on American commerce—a tremendous increase in the sale of foodstuffs for foreign armies and a marked decrease in exportation of cotton, machinery and materials for use in manufacturing—was shown in detail today by statistics compiled by the department of commerce.

Exports of grain and meats jumped to practically unprecedented quantities in September, resulting in a great improvement over August's trade and a substantial export balance, but the decrease in the sale aboard of cotton and manufactures resulted in a loss, compared with September, 1913, of $61,902,668.

Gain for September Exports.

The gain for September's exports over those for the first month of the war was $45,968,219. Supplemental figures obtained at the department showed that exportations of canned beef jumped from 364,693 pounds in September, 1913, to 2,885,356 last month. The increased trade in fresh meat was larger. More than 7,037,400 pounds were shipped abroad last month, compared with 634,523 in September, 1913.

The war growth of grain exports was as marked. Barley sales jumped from 251,454 bushels in September, 1913, to 2,781,286 last month; oats from 318,928 to 10,780,165; wheat from 11,971,163 to 25,869,100, while rice exports increased from 1,486,995 pounds to 10,443,817.

The decrease in exports of cotton during September compared with last year amounted to nearly $60,000,000.

With the partial restoration of shipping facilities, a remarkable improvement in the exports to some of the Latin-American countries was shown over the first month of the war. Trade to Germany, Russia and Belgium remained at low ebb, but that to the United Kingdom was fairly well maintained.

American Imports.

The United States purchased from the world last month goods valued at $140,089,611, compared with imports of $171,084,843 in September, 1913. Increases in imports were shown from the United Kingdom, Argentina, Canada, Cuba and Holland. Greatest decreases were shown in imports from Germany, France, Belgium and Russia.

The export trade of $156,337,333 as compared with $218,240,001 a year ago was divided in part among "the war" countries and Latin-America as follows:

Argentina	$ 5,151,071	$ 3,054,986
Belgium	4,798,174	747,880
Brazil	2,791,556	2,817,389
France	17,552,756	19,008,510
Germany	34,789,624	2,378
Russia	2,030,257	217,385
United Kingdom	58,458,248	41,878,100

LOUISIANA MAKES FIGHT ON THE SUGAR COMBINE

New Orleans, October 27.—Suit was filed in civil district court here late today by the state of Louisiana seeking to enjoin the American Sugar Refining company from doing business in the state, asking the appointment of a receiver for the corporation's extensive holdings and judicial sequestration of its property, rights and credits. The suit was filed at the direction of Governor Hall by District Attorney Luzenburg and Special Counsel Don Caffery, and is supplementary to a recent ouster suit filed by the state.

Judge Edward K. Skinner, in whose court the suit was brought, issued an order setting the petition for hearing on November 5.

It is said the decision to take such action came after the governor and district attorney had today received from officers of the company in New York unsatisfactory answers to inquiries they had made concerning the recent closing of the big refinery here.

The proposed action today is another phase of a long fight that has been waged against the corporation in Louisiana. There are now pending against the corporation more than a hundred identical damage suits charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

VALUES OF SECURITIES OFFERED FOR LOANS

Washington, October 27.—Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams is considering a definite announcement of the treasury department's attitude toward values of securities offered for loans from national banks. He said today that national bank examiners had been given verbal instructions to recognize the prices obtaining on the New York stock exchange July 30, less the usual 20 per cent margin.

Mr. Williams explained that where the department is convinced that there has been a real depreciation since the exchange closed and where the borrower can meet a call for additional margin, a demand for further security probably would be made and a value less than last quoted placed on the original collateral.

Some treasury officials believe recognition of New York closing prices will benefit banks as well as borrowers. It was explained that the department's policy has been to recognize closing prices in passing on collateral loans and a continuation may give confidence in financial circles.

CONVICTED OF LARCENY, BUT NAMED FOR JUDGE

Indianapolis, October 27.—John F. O'Brien, through his attorney, late today, admitted in court that he had been convicted of larceny in the St. Louis criminal court and that he had assumed the name "Frank X. O'Brien" in Indianapolis and as "Frank X. O'Brien" had been nominated on the democratic ticket for judge of the Marion county juvenile court. The court then ordered the election commissioners to substitute the name of Newton M. Taylor, incumbent, for that of O'Brien on the ticket.

It was brought out today that O'Brien not only appropriated the name of Frank X. O'Brien, a St. Louis attorney, but also claimed the St. Louis attorney's record as his own. John F. O'Brien claimed to have served several terms in the Missouri legislature and to have been a candidate for congress. This record is held by the real Frank X. O'Brien.

SCHIFF SENDS $40,000 TO JEWS OF JERUSALEM

New York, October 27.—Samuel Edelman, United States vice consul at Jerusalem, who returned tonight on the steamer Ancona, said that just before he left his post the Jews of the city received $40,000 from Jacob H Schiff to be used for charitable purposes. Because of depression, resulting from the war, Mr. Edelman said, there is more than the usual amount of distress in Jerusalem.

ITALIAN CITIES SHAKEN BY SEISMIC SHOCKS

Florence, Italy, October 27.—(Via Rome.)—A severe earthquake was felt in this city today. The inhabitants were thrown into a condition of panic, but the shock did little damage.

Milan, Italy, October 27.—(Via Rome.)—An earthquake was recorded in Milan this morning. Considerable alarm was caused among the people, but there were no casualties.

MORE CONFIDENCE AMONG COTTON MEN

New Orleans Brokers Are of Opinion That the Exchanges Will Be Busy by Middle of November.

New Orleans, October 27.—A more cheerful tone generally featured the cotton market today, with more confidence expressed in the situation. Private opinion expressed by brokers was that the future ring would again be in operation by the middle of November.

January contracts today at one time worked up the 7.15 bid. This rise was partly due to the better prices for spots in the west, Dallas registering an advance of one-eighth, and partly to the cold wave sweeping the cotton belt. Exports for the day were the largest for a long time, shipments from all ports amounting to 41,375 bales. Official cablegrams from Manchester told of a better business in both cloths and yarns.

Locally, spots were unchanged at 6½ for middling on total sales of 2,275 bales, the largest day's business since the new season opened.

Believe Worst Has Passed.

New York, October 27.—Reports that export demand was already improving, as a result of the British attitude on cotton cargoes and a feeling that the frosts reported in the south might result in some reduction of crop estimates, seemed largely responsible for the expression of still more optimistic sentiment in trade circles here today. Exports for the day were in excess of 40,000 bales, while offers of spot cotton from the southwest were a shade higher, and although available supplies in the south have still to reach their maximum, some local operators are now inclined to believe that the cotton trade has passed through the depressing phases of the situation created by the war. It is expected that the plans of the $135,000,000 pool for financing surplus supplies will be completed in time to go into operation coincidentally with the federal reserve system.

Advance at Dallas.

Dallas, Texas, October 27.—Cotton spots showed the most rapid advance here today in several weeks when foreign buyers entered the market actively because of yesterday's British announcement that cotton would not be molested at sea. Middling rose ⅛ of a cent per pound, compared with yesterday, being quoted at 6 3-16. It was 6 cents Saturday. Sales reported on the Dallas cotton exchange today, 11,264 bales.

WHEAT DECLINED ON LARGE STOCKS

Market Closed Steady, 1 to 1 1-8 Cents Off—Corn and Oats Also Closed Lower. Provisions Depressed.

Chicago, October 27.—Wheat took a downward slide today, influenced by falling off in speculative call and by the piling up of domestic stocks. Trade finished steady, but 1 to 1 1-8 under last night. Corn lost 3-4 to 3-4@7-8 net and oats 7-8 to 1. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 45 cents down.

Most of the wheat selling came from owners who had recently purchased because of the large export business. Stress was laid by bears on the fact that stocks in the United States are now 10,000,000 bushels more than a year ago. The best prices were scored right at the start, the lowest in the final hour.

Ideal weather for the maturing and shipment of corn put that cereal under bearish control.

Oats sagged with other staples, despite continued demand from the seaboard There was a steady stream of selling orders from minor longs.

Provisions were depressed by the weakness of grain and hogs. The bulk of the trading was in lard.

DIVIDEND OF STEEL FINANCIAL FEATURE

Company Enabled by Small Dividend to Escape a Deficit—State and City Issues Showed Improvement.

New York, October 27.—Reduction of the quarterly common dividend of the United States Steel corporation from 1 1-4 to 1-2 of 1 per cent was the most interesting event of the day in the financial district. By taking this action, which was indirectly attributed to the European war, the company was enabled to turn what would otherwise have been another deficit into a very small surplus.

Accepting the investment situation as a criterion, conditions continued to show steady improvement. Extensive dealings in the city and state issues were announced, the 4 1-2 per cent bonds of two Massachusetts cities selling well above par. One prominent banking house reported an order for $500,000 worth of high-class bonds, which was not entirely filled at the end of the day, because of the small floating supply. It was noteworthy, however, that the inquiry was only for bonds of the first grade, denoting extreme caution on the part of the investors.

Foreign exchange was decidedly less of a factor, owing to the lessened demand. Cables and sight drafts on London opened a material fraction over yesterday's low rates, but receded as the inquiry waned. German reichmarks were moderately active at 88 5-8, or slightly over their recent low quotation.

Additional heavy exports of various commodities and merchandise for the account of important German interests were said to be under negotiation. In fact, shipments from this port to countries at war are amounting to figures where they must soon efface American obligations abroad. Today's exports of cotton alone were more than double those of any day since the outbreak of hostilities. Copper was also being taken in large quantities, but without any appreciable effect on the low prices so long quoted by producers.

Decided progress was made in preliminaries connected with the cotton poll, and a call on local members of the federal reserve for payment of their first installment for stock of that bank indicated the determination of the board to have the system in operation by the middle of November.

The disruption to trade in the south, because of the cotton situation, was reflected in the September earnings of the Southern railway, which showed a net loss of $484,000.

Another large gain in gold holdings of the Imperial Bank of Germany furnished the most significant item of foreign news. Monetary conditions in London were on a firmer basis.

Steel Corporation Statement.

New York, October 27.—The United States Steel corporation voted this afternoon a quarterly dividend of half of one per cent on the common stock. This is at rate of 2 per cent a year. Heretofore the dividend has been 5 per cent. The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock was declared. The total earnings of the corporation for the quarter ending September 30 were $22,276,002; the net income for the quarter, $14,682,022.

For the first time this year there was a surplus for the quarter. It was $89,479.

WILL ENGLISH CHANNEL HAVE A GERMAN PORT?

Kaiser Will Put Up a Great Fight to Keep Antwerp Under His Control.

(From The Pittsburg Dispatch.)

It was announced that the objective of Germany, now that Antwerp had surrendered, is Ostend, the capture, possibly, of King Albert and all that is of value in the temporary capital, which came to that city from Antwerp about two weeks ago; and that after Ostend, the victorious march of the Teutons will be for other cities of the English channel on the coast of France. With the capture of Ostend the Belgians would be without a capital, for there is no other resting place within the boundaries of Belgium. The subjugation of the kingdom would be complete, unless it could be wrested from the victors by the allies. Therefore, it is another baffling move of the beleagured Belgians to transport the capital to Havre, at the mouth of the Seine, far to the west of Ostend, and 110 miles to the northwest of Paris, as will be described farther on.

Though it will be a "right smart" march from Antwerp to Ostend, as military conditions obtain at this time, it is possible there will be no formidable obstruction. Once there a siege gun or two would soon destroy the puny fortifications and knock to pieces the splendid summer hotels and the gay Kursaal.

Will Try to Take Ostend.

With the taking of Ostend the Germans would really have a seaport on the channel, which they have not now at Antwerp. There on the Scheldt they are 60 miles from the North sea, and the estuary of that river is within the neutral territory of Holland. The revival of the old commercial glory of Antwerp began in 1863, when the province bought from Holland an ancient right to levy tolls on the Scheldt, and then abolished the tolls, but that gave no political control of that part of the river passing through the territory of Holland. That by treaty is neutral waters, and with any violation of neutrality, or if Holland were to waive neutrality to Germany, which has declared Belgium to be a German province, there would come a clash of marine monsters such as has never been known in naval warfare.

At Ostend there is a good port, which has had an enormous commerce between England and the continent, but it is questionable if it could be utilized for an invasion of England by transports, as any attempt in that direction would again mean a clash of sea leviathans. But, as has been said, the taking of Ostend would complete the subjugation of Belgium, possibly involving a levy of indemnity to the extent of many hundreds of millions of dollars, the demand upon Antwerp for $100,000,000 having been made already.

Kaiser May Try for Calais.

Calais must be the first point of attack in France if the Germans go farther afield in their reported policy of gaining control of channel ports for an invasion of England, or for any other advantage. Calais is the nearest port to the shores of England, as it is only 26 miles across the channel to Dover, where there are, by the way, great fortifications. Calais does a vast channel trade, not only in passenger vessels, but in commercial bottoms, the exports running between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 a year and the imports about $25,000,000. The city has a population of about 60,000, is fortified, and is about 16 miles from Paris.

The port of Boulogne comes next to the west, at the mouth of the river Liane, 157 miles from Paris, an there is an immense passenger traffic between it and Folkstone in England, many preferring this route rather than the Dover-Calais. Its yearly imports have a value from $75,000,000 to $80,000,000. It is the port where Napoleon I. organized his great fleet for the transportation to England of his grande armee of 160,000 men in 1802. There Admiral Nelson scored his second victory over Napoleon on the sea, the first being at the battle of the Nile, both to be supplemented by Nelson's famous victory at Trafalga, where Nelson received his death wound.

The next harbor on the channel coast of France to the west of Boulogne is Dieppe, the French terminal to the route from New Haven in England, and affording what is known as the "night trip" between London and Paris, a voyage of five hours in the most luxurious of channel vessels; but it is the shortest of railway journeys, being only two hours from London to New Haven and about the same for the 92 miles from Dieppe to Paris.

France's Important Ports.

Then many miles to the west come the great ports for transatlantic liners, Havre, at the mouth of the Seine, 110 miles from Paris, and Cherbourg, on the northern extremity of the Contentin peninsula, 230 miles northwest of Paris. These have been for many years the most important ports for continental lines, especially the French, the Hamburg-American, the Red Star and the North German Lloyd. These great seaports at the mouth of the English channel, practically on the Atlantic ocean, would hardly be disturbed by any invasion of England, as the nearest ports in the latter country are those of the well-protected harbors of Portsmouth and Southampton.

Havre, announced as the new Belgium capital, is a formidable fortifie port, and has been improved in recent years until it is one of the finest in the world. It has two harbors, the outer and the inner, the former being for naval and great commercial vessels, with a depth of 30 feet; the inner being connected with the Seine by the Canal de Tancvarville, that smaller vessels destined for Rouen and Paris may not interfere with the vessels of the larger harbor. Havre has a population of 150,000 and imports and exports with a value well on to $1,000,000,000.

Nature's Latest Prodigy

Healing Science Revolutionized by Her Magic Hand.

Her Strange Designs Unfolding Every Day—Diseases Dissipated as by a Magician's Wand.

Truth, honesty and uprightness is a trinity of virtues that should be the guiding star of every man in his dealings with the public at large. It is only by such business methods can the confidence of the people be won and retained, especially the confidence of the invalid or afflicted, for they have been imposed upon so long they are nearly all disgusted or discouraged in trying to get well—and little wonder. But that is the pedestal upon which the record of Dr. May and his Magnetist is reared, and it towers like a shaft of ivory to the clouds. On these precepts and along these lines has he prosecuted this humanitarian work which has emblazoned his name on the highest pinnacle of fame. His one great mission among the afflicted is to alleviate their sufferings and heal their infirmities.

In this his ambition and aspirations are the highest, deepest, broadest and grandest known to the human mind, the very acme of human greatness. The young magnetic prodigy being singularly endowed with a gift of nature that at once distinguishes him from his fellowmen, nature seems to have said to herself: "I will give to the world a man whom I shall endow with a subtle power that shall go forth and conquer disease, that arch enemy and fell destroyer of my noblest handiwork," and to this end she commissioned the Human Magnet whom Eugene Field called "The Boy Phenomenon." How well he is doing nature's bidding and carrying out her designs a grateful public can testify.

At Dr. May's residence, 665 Peachtree, this strangest prodigy of nature is constantly engaged every hour of the day, treating the afflicted, unremittingly dispensing health, strength and hope to the hopeless and forlorn, ever happiest when accomplishing the most good.

His patients are numbered among all classes of people, the rich and poor, the educated, the intelligent and refined—people with the most profound reason have given up their prejudices, been convinced and are now profiting by what they have seen and know to be facts, and realizing the folly of waiting and suffering weeks, months and even years with disease which could as well be cured in a few days, reason and judgment, in place of experiment and theory, have taken the helm and guided them to the invincible power of magnetic healing, which is the active principle of all life, action and health giving force.

It is not claimed that magnetism cures every disease. Since the opening of the office in Atlanta three weeks ago he has turned away sixty-three people with afflictions which the examination revealed were incurable. But compare, if you will, the permanent cures affected by him in this city alone, with all the other treatments and methods combined, and then give an honest expression of your opinion regarding which system has made the largest number and most phenomenal cures in Atlanta.

Magnetism stands on its merits and is to be judged solely by its accomplishments. The Human Magnet can point with pride and satisfaction to the score or more well-known citizens who for years have suffered with various complaints, and others who have wended their weary way through life in wheel chairs, on crutch and cane, but who are now well and happy, hale and hearty, walking our streets proud and erect as ever, and at every step showering blessings upon him for their wonderful restoration to health and happiness.

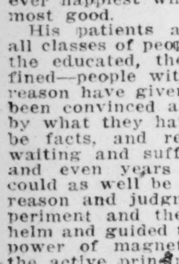

The wonderful reconstructive power of Magnetism is essentially indicated in nervous conditions of both sexes. It gives a delightful sense of security, mental control, tranquillity and contentment, sending a soft, soothing, potent life-giving current of vital force into your blood, nerves and body. At once you begin to feel the sunshine of new energy permeating your entire system.

Those who contemplate taking treatment are urged to call at once as the present low rates will apply for this week only, after which the regular fees will be charged. Consultation hours from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. daily, except Sunday and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8. Special appointments by mail. All cases are examined and diagnosed by the chief consulting physician, and if found curable the price for treatment will be named. Offices and treatment rooms are at 665 Peachtree street.

FIRST PULPIT FLOWERS PROVOKED BITTER WORDS

(From The New York Sun.)

Few churchgoers who note the floral decorations of the pulpit on Sunday mornings know who it was that first brought flowers into a descendant of the New England church. Of course, such a thing could not have been thought of in Puritan days and more than music, or stoves, or any other awe reducing influence in the old meeting house.

That makes it all the more curious that the custom of pulpit decorations should have originated in Northboro, Mass.

The clergyman, Dr. Allen, although a true preacher of the old school, happened also to be a lover of flowers. He had a beautiful, old-fashioned garden in front of his house, and one Sunday in 1834 he took a bouquet to church and placed it beside the Bible.

On seeing it one of the deacons went forward and removed the vase, remarking: "Parson, I'll just take them weeds out of your way."

The next Sunday Dr. Allen again placed a bunch of his garden flowers beside the Bible, and this time it remained.

Other churches took the matter up and sermons were preached about it. It was blasphemous, and a wicked worldly show, it was declared. But the blossoms were there each Sunday, and are there to this day.

It is the custom of this Northboro church to use garden flowers or wild flowers or leaves when they are in season; but collections are taken up to buy flowers through the seasons when these cannot be had.

Even the churches whose preachers once denounced the custom and condemned the originators of it long ago succumbed to the gentle missionary influence of the pulpit bouquet.

EFFICIENCY IS THE REWARD OF GOOD HEALTH

Efficiency is the watchword of the times! It is the search after this efficiency that drives out the "weak spots" in so many different phases of business.

Are you physically efficient? Is your body so working in co-operation that you are able to produce the maximum of energy without weakening any organ in the body?

The chances are that you are not. The brightest physicians maintain that not 1 per cent among all the people in America could pass a physical efficiency test with a clean slate.

Nervous debility, the product of civilization, has weakened every one. Nature demands assistance. Perfect rest is one efficient means of helping Nature, but how many of us can afford the time or money to take several months of rest? But science has produced a substitute in the great tonic—Tona Vita.

Tona Vita will drive away that feeling of depression. It will bring vitality to your system. You will no longer suffer from that tired feeling, but will redound with renewed strength and vigor.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Preparations will soon be made to install white way lights along Broad street from Mitchell to Alabama, transforming it from the darkest thoroughfare in the uptown district to one of the most brilliantly lighted. This will be of inestimable value to property owners along the two blocks affected.

Broad street between Mitchell and Alabama is fast being built up. Old buildings are being razed and new ones erected. It is destined to soon become one of the downtown neighborhood's most progressive business sections.

Work is progressing fast on the South Pryor street regrading and repaving project carried on jointly by the county commissioners and the city works department. Among the new buildings in vicinity of Washington and Georgia avenue, where the reconstruction work is going on is Cronheim's pharmacy, which will soon be ready for occupancy.

COTTON CROP DILEMMA IS THE SOUTH'S LESSON

(From The Birmingham (Ala.) Ledger.)

We have little hopes for any practical, co-operative moves on the part of the several cotton states towards providing an effective or permanent relief in the present situation. While we would welcome any action based on sound economic principles looking to aid for the farmers in their emergency, we confess to small faith in that direction.

As a temporary expediency co-operation from industrial and commercial institutions elsewhere having business connections and trade relations with the cotton-growing territory, as well as individual action, through the buy-a-bale slogan and otherwise, undoubtedly have helped. But in the last analysis these movements have been based upon business considerations and benefits directly or indirectly.

So, after all, the whole proposition is boiled down to a matter of business. And just here comes in the business phase of the situation at the hands of the farmers themselves. Their prospects may appear somewhat discouraging so far as concerns the disposition of the big cotton crop of 1914. But just as sure as they fail to realize the folly of raising another big crop in 1915, they will encounter disaster for themselves and every interest in the south closely associated with the production of cotton.

This emphasizes what The Ledger has preached to the farmers of Alabama for years. As a matter of self-preservation and safeguard against destruction, they have got to abandon the antiquated and dangerous one-crop idea, materially curtail their cotton acreage and raise more food products that not only supply their own needs, but command active and profitable markets.

Herein lies the salvation and interests of the farmers of Alabama far more than any possible government or state aid propaganda can foster. The farmer himself holds the key to the situation as far as concerns his future. Will he continue to lock himself outside, rather than enter a broad field of opportunity and promise?

The Cost of the War.

Assuming 8,500,000 men in arms, Yves Guyot recently estimated the cost of the war, upon Balkan experience of $2.50 a day per man, at $22,000,000 a day. An earlier and less detailed estimate fixed the cost at $50,000,000 a day.

Such estimates as M. Guyot's fail to cover loss by crop waste, by destruction of property, by mobilization before the war and in neutral countries. Materoial damage in Belgium has already reached $500,000,000; in France perhaps twice as much. What it has ben in Galica, Poland and East Prussia, and may be later, who knows?

One year of the war upon a daily estimate midway between M. Guyot's and the highest, say at $36,000,000 a day, would cost more than eleven billions. Material damage and indirect loss would reach half as much; it is already gigantic.

The entire estimated wealth of the eight European nations at war is $281,000,000,000. The war could not continue a second year without costing them one-tenth of all their garnered wealth of centuries, and neutral nations a sum smaller but considerable. Upon such a showing a long war seems impossible.

REAL WINTER ARRIVES; OVERCOATS IN DEMAND

Mercury Is Expected to Fall to Thirty-Four Degrees Today.

It was stated yesterday that Tuesday's weather and last night's weather—not to mention the weather we're having this morning—were "a sample" of winter. Not to be argumentative, nor grubbing about for a dispute, but if all this is only "a sample," the question arises: What will the real goods be?

This is winter. There's no doubt about it. Count the overcoats on the streets this morning. Count the red noses, the glistening eyes and the shivering aspect of every pedestrian you meet. That is, if you can't take the weather's own word for it. Weather that brings a killing frost should be convincing enough, whether you count coats, noses, eyes or what not.

And that's what it is—killing frost. It is the first-cousin to the cold wave that struck Atlanta rapidships Tuesday morning and settled to stay with us awhile. The temperature this morning is expected to be somewhere in the neighborhood of thirty-four degrees. Last night was a bit colder.

The wave advanced upon the territory late Monday night from the northwest, gaining force as it traveled. It acquired unusual strength Tuesday. The weather dope says it is prevalent over the entire eastern and southern parts of the United States.

Snow in Virginia.

Snow is falling in Virginia and North Carolina, although the cold wave is expected to have departed from Georgia before snow conditions arise. The wind, too, is relinquishing. A shrieking northwester bombarded the town late Monday night, but subsided by dawn. Tuesday was a bit windy, but today will be calm and clear and cold.

The wave is proceeding toward Florida and is expected to be broken by the time it reaches the state line. A tropical disturbance several hundred miles east of the coast of Florida is accompanied by low pressure that penetrates as far north as the gulf of St. Lawrence.

The weather man also says that, although this morning will be biting cold, the temperature will moderate as the day progresses. There will be no clouds and the sun will have full play. The lack of wind, too, will help the situation and the overcoatless hundreds.

Winter is officially and permanently ushered in. Unless predictions from the roof of the Empire building go wrong, we will have but little—if any—more warm weather; except that pleasantly moderate sort that always is to be found in southern climate. The present cold wave, however, will not be an extended one. It is hardly expected to live more than three or four days at the outset.

WINTER ONLY BLUFFING, SAYS WASHINGTON

Washington, October 27.—Assurance that today's touch of winter will be followed immediately by generally warmer weather throughout the country was given tonight by government forecasters.

Maine was the only state where temperatures were below freezing tonight. In Greenville, Maine, the mercury went down to 22 and at Portland it was 30.

Tonight's forecast indicated temperatures would be higher Wednesday in the middle and upper Mississippi and the Ohio valleys, and would rise slowly Thursday in the northeastern districts and the south.

The frost line today extended as far south as Tennessee and northwest Texas and there were light snowfalls along Lake Ontario and in northern Maine.

Unofficial reports from Harrisonburg, Va., tonight, said ice had formed in some places there a quarter of an inch thick.

FIGURES ON RESERVES HELD BY NATIONAL BANKS

Washington, October 27.—Comptroller of the Currency Williams tonight made public a statement showing that reserves held by national banks on September 12, the date of his last call for their condition, were $580,000,000 in excess of the amount required under the new banking law. Of this sum $53,000,000 was in the Boston district; $83,000,000 in the New York district; $70,000,000 in the Philadelphia district; $59,000,000 in the Cleveland district; $24,000,000 in the Richmond district; $14,000,000 in the Atlanta district; $88,000,000 in the Chicago district; $18,000,000 in the St. Louis district; $43,000,000 in the Minneapolis district; $57,000,000 in the Kansas City district; $24,000,000 in the Dallas district, and $50,000,000 in the San Francisco district. The total reserve was about $115,000,000 above present legal requirements.

As present reserve requirements are $1,460,711,345 and the new requirement will be $995,792,269, the statement points out that $464,919,076 will be released under the new law. Of this amount New York city will contribute about $88,000,000, Chicago about $24,000,000, St. Louis about $8,000,000, other reserve cities about $203,000,000 and country banks about $141,000,000.

RUBEN IS UNDER BOND.

Is Arrested Following Alleged Robbery by Negro.

Joseph Ruben, proprietor of a meat market, 114 Decatur, who stated to the police that he had been robbed Monday morning in his home, 269 East Fair, of a bag containing $1,000, and is said to have been cut by the thief, was arrested Tuesday evening at the Grady hospital by Detectives Davis and Cowan and a case booked against him on the complaint of several packing houses of Atlanta. When brought to the stationhouse Ruben immediately obtained a bond of $1,500 for his appearance at the recorder's hearing Thursday afternoon.

During the last week Ruben has bought on time from various wholesale meat houses consignments of meat and lard, which, the detectives state, amount to $2,500. When approached Saturday night by their representatives in regard to his obligations Ruben is said to have stated that he had no money to meet his obligations.

Monday morning Ruben told the police that he had been robbed of a sack containing $1,000, which was the proceeds of the previous week's business and which he had taken to his home Saturday night for safe-keeping. Cuts about the face and body were dressed at the Gray hospital, which are said to have been inflicted by a razor in the hands of the thief.

Monday night Ruben re-entered the hospital complaining of being in a serious condition resulting from his injuries. When he was examined Tuesday morning by physicians at the instigation of the interested local firms the wounds were pronounced slight. The patient's arrest took place as he left the hospital following the police investigations of the past two days.

FOUR MEN ARE KILLED WHEN KILN COLLAPSES

Samson, Ala., October 27.—Four men were killed and a fifth seriously injured early this morning when a large dry kiln of the Alabama Lumber and Kiln company collapsed without warning. All were buried beneath thousands of feet of lumber, and it is a miracle that any escaped with their lives.

The dead: J. A. Butler, Ed Frazer, Marcus Hargrove and Alto Pew.

Wilbur Hall is the most seriously wounded and not expected to live.

NO SPECIAL SESSION, ACCORDING TO WILSON

Washington, October 27.—President Wilson let it be known officially today that he has no intention of calling a special session of congress after election. There was some talk in congress just before adjournment that an extra session might take up legislation to relieve cotton planters.

Laugh Winter to Scorn:

Then you'll understand why Hups are selling so readily this fall.

It is just like owning two cars—one open and one closed—at little more than the cost of one.

Complete and cozy protection from wind, water and snow; and an interior finish worthy of a fine limousine.

People who never before have bought cars in the fall, are buying new Hupmobiles, largely because they can have them fitted with these bodies, at a very reasonable figure, and be assured of winter motoring comfort.

BEST FOR THE EYES

Screws will get loose. Glasses will become wabbly on the face. It is a great annoyance. Our new method of making eyeglasses removes this trouble. We now mount lenses without the use of screws—as shown in the cut.

Dilating the pupils of the eyes does not insure correct fitting glasses. We fit glasses for astigmatism, successfully, without the use of drugs. Investigate our service before ordering new lenses.

CHEAPER ARMOR PLATE FOR NEW BATTLESHIPS

Washington, October 27.—Contracts for $10,674,112 worth of armor plate and steel for the new battleships California, Mississippi and Idaho were awarded today by the navy department to the Bethlehem and Midvale Steel companies. The Bethlehem contracts are for material for two vessels aggregating $7,122,708, and the Midvale contract for the other at $3,551,404.

A statement issued by the navy department tonight said a reduction in prices secured through the efforts of Secretary Daniels had resulted in a saving of $759,542 on these contracts. Mr. Daniels persuaded the companies to accept contracts on the basis of total supply for construction of the three vessels at the lowest prices they had specified for limited quantities of the materials.
